"GIT ALONG LITTLE DOGGIE"

Now don't you envy those doggy people who get listed in the social register? There, in big type, on page 288, is listed Miss Rose, junior member of the George L. K. Morris family of New York and Lennox, Mass. But alas, society never will be invited to attend her debut, for Miss Rose is only the bright-eyed Pekingese pictured with Mrs. Morris, whose sense of humor burst the bubble of social exclusiveness. And horrors! Rose doesn't even have a pedigree.

Seek Florida Evidence In Astor Divorce Case

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Mary Astor's lawyer announced today he will fly to Florida to interview witnesses in support of her contention that her divorced husband, Dr. Franklyn Thorpe, lived with Mrs. Lillian Mawson Miles as man and wife in Tampa prior to his marriage to the film star.

Roland Rich Woolley, the attorney, said he would take depositions from at least 12 persons in Tampa. He named six of them today. Woolley said he would fly to Tampa as soon as the present child custody phase of the Astor-Thorpe court battle is over.

Mrs. Miles was named co-defendant with Dr. Thorpe's parents in Miss Astor's suit for annulment of her marriage to the Hollywood physician on grounds that he was married and undivorced at the time of his marriage to the actress.

It was reported that Miss Astor's counsel would seek statements relative to a wedding reception in Tampa.

Gets Court Permission

Woolley obtained court authorization from Superior Judge Carlton for the taking of the depositions over the bitter opposition from Superior Judge Carlton.

ROOSEVELT MAPS CAMPAIGN PLANS

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(UP)—President Roosevelt mapped today the part he personally will play in his fight for re-election. He was determined upon an aggressive campaign, to begin at once.

The chief executive, who took command of party activities on return from a sea-going vacation, was expected to carry his banner first into the drought regions of the west and middle west.

White House attaches expected him to start out early next week on a visit not only to North and South Dakota and Minnesota as originally intended, but to the corn belt where a burning sun is laying waste to acres of crops.

Arrangements were for him to head for the drought sections late this month but it was understood today for murdering his secretary, Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture and Chester Davis, former AAA administrator, prevailed upon him to delay.

Scoutmaster Dies For Killing Wife

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Newell Paige Sherman, former choir singer and scoutmaster, was electrocuted today for murdering his young wife for the love of a 17-year-old girl.

The girl, Esther Magill, who said at his trial that she never intended marrying him, worked her regular hours at a factory yesterday and spent the evening at the home of an aunt in Worcester.

She did not sign a petition for clemency that 51 others of the factory workers sent to Gov. James H. Curley.

Indict Major Oil Companies

VIOLATION ANTI-TRUST LAW CHARGED

Federal Charge Includes 58 Individuals, 3 Papers; Price Fixing Claimed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(UP)—In a sweeping Sherman anti-trust action, the justice department today made public details of indictment of 23 major oil companies, 58 individuals and three publications on charges of price fixing and pooling gasoline purchases.

It was one of the most extensive allegations of anti-trust law violation in recent years.

Heading the list of those indicted were the nation's major oil firms, including Standard Oil of Indiana, Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Cities Service, Continental Oil, Gulf Oil, Pure Oil Company, Shell Petroleum, Sinclair Refining, Texas Company, Tide Water Oil, Mid-Continent Petroleum, Phillips Petroleum, Skelly Oil, Barnsdall Refining and the Globe Oil and Refining company.

Charge Conspiracy

The defendants were charged with conspiring to raise and fix the prices of gasoline sold in interstate commerce, principally in 10 mid-western states.

The indictments were returned by a federal grand jury at Madison, Wis., as the outgrowth of an investigation ordered last May by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

Individuals indicted included: Edward G. Seibert, president, Standard of Indiana; Allan Jackson, vice-president, Standard of Indiana; Edward J. Bullock, vice-president, Standard of Indiana; Ira A. Smith, buyer, Standard of Indiana; John A. Brown, president, Socony-Vacuum; Charles L. Jones, vice-president, Socony-Vacuum; Charles A. Arnett, vice-president, Socony-Vacuum; H. T. Ashton, manager of Lubrite division, Socony-Vacuum.

Harry D. Frueauff, vice-president, Cities Service Export; Frank R. Coates, director, Cities Service; H. E. Brandt, vice-president, Cities Service; O. J. Tuttle, tank car sales manager, Empire; D. W. Harris, general manager, Louisiana Oil; John A. Welch, sales manager, Louisiana Oil; Dan Moran, president, Continental; Harry J. Kennedy, vice-president, Continental; L. T. Cramer, tank car buyer, Continental; Edward Karstedt, former.

Seek Peace In Labor Revolt

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(UP)—A compromise move to prevent outright expulsion of 12 "rebel" labor unions led by John L. Lewis gained strength today at the insurrection trial by the American Federation of Labor executive council.

Petitions of scores of local labor unions and volunteer conciliators to avert a direct split in organized labor ranks were said to be swaying some of the 14 council members sitting as a jury against immediate drastic action against the "rebels."

Several members were reported supporting Daniel J. Tobin, council member, in a proposal that the council recommend suspension to the A. F. of L. national convention in November at Tampa, Fla.

Open to Parley

This would leave the way open for thrashing out of the craft vs. industrial union issue—crux of the present trial—before the convention at which the 12 unions headed by Lewis would be represented. A decision thus would be left to the federation as a whole.

Lewis and his associates, who declined to appear at the council trial, have indicated they would argue their defense if permitted to do so at the convention.

Outright suspension by the council, however, would prevent the seating of delegates from unions affiliated with Lewis' committee of industrial organization. The convention, in that event, would be almost certain to ratify the council's action.

LIFE TERMER ASKS AID OF GOVERNOR

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Asserting he is wrongfully held under a life sentence as a habitual criminal, George A. Clark, Los Angeles convict, today asked Gov. Frank F. Merriam to aid in obtaining his release from Folsom prison.

In a letter to the governor, Clark pointed out his sentence had been placed at 14 years by the board of prison terms and paroles following a third conviction on bad check charges. Last year the board reconsidered the case and ordered a life term for Clark as an habitual criminal, he said.

Under the 14-year sentence, Clark's term would expire August 28. He requested his release on that date so that he might return to Canada, his native country.

Charge Oil Man's Widow With Death

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Aug. 4.—(UP)—A first degree murder charge was to be filed today against Mrs. Jane Fornachon, accused of the slaying of her husband, Victor, 45, superintendent of an oil company.

Mrs. Fornachon, who confessed shooting her husband fatally as a climax to a quarrel over "another woman," was bound over to the district attorney's office yesterday.

She reported the shooting to police as an "accident." Officers investigated and found Fornachon near death with two bullets in his body, lying in bed. He died two hours later at a hospital.

ATTEMPT TO SEIZE FORT IS BALKED

Spanish Princes Join Rebel Army as Troopers; Claim Civil Guards Desert

MADRID, Aug. 4.—(UP)—An audacious rebel attempt to seize Valencia and cut Madrid off from the sea was disclosed today coincidentally with new, forceful government measures to combat the rebellion.

A small, daring group of army officers tried to seize control of the Valencia garrison.

Had they succeeded, they might have doomed the government to defeat. Valencia, on the east coast, is at the other end of the railway jugular vein from the capital to the sea. Its loss could have proved fatal.

The Valencia revolt was quickly suppressed, it was announced, and the Loyalists retain firm control.

Three government decrees were promulgated this morning. They: 1—Authorized the government to take provisional control of four great railway lines serving all Spain except the far south. 2—Authorized the ministry of interior to establish a national motor transport corporation to assume charge of the requisitioning, distribution and control of all motor transport in the country. 3—Created volunteer army battalions, recruited from the present workers' militia, of men between 20 and 30 years of age. The men recruited will serve throughout two months.

This last decree puts in practical effect the hitherto roughly envisaged plans for a sort of national guard, complementary to the regular army, composed of trained men loyal to the left wing government.

Details of the fighting at Valencia, short lived but of major moment, were released by the government this morning.

GUARDSMEN PATROL IDAHO STRIKE AREA

OROFINO, Ida., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Martial law ruled strike-torn Clearwater county's white pine lumber area today with 120 National Guardsmen called by Gov. C. Ben Ross patrolling the scene of a violent clash between strike pickets and workmen in which five men were shot and three beaten.

The troops were requested by Sheriff Joel Wilson, of Clearwater county, who told the governor groups were "flaunting authority of the law," which he was unable to enforce. He asked for a force sufficient to "repel the insurrection."

The victims of Sunday night's battle were in serious condition at a hospital. Most of them were shot in the arms and legs. Three reportedly were beaten with iron chains.

MARYSVILLE WILL INCREASE BUDGET

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Authority to exceed its budget limitation by $15,000 in carrying out municipal projects was granted the city of Marysville after a hearing here, the State Board of Equalization announced today.

The excess funds will be used in relocating the city's baseball park and making improvements at the municipal airport. An increase of five cents per $100 in the city tax rate will provide the additional money, officials said.

Navy Plans Flight To Honolulu Base

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Twelve navy patrol planes of a new type, now under construction, will be flown in two mass flights of six planes each to the Pearl Harbor base here next winter, it was learned reliably today.

It was reported without confirmation that the first flight from the mainland to Hawaii is scheduled for December and the second for January.

Naval air base officials here refused to confirm or deny the report.

RAMSEY TO BUY S. A. BULLETIN

SALE OF the Santa Ana Bulletin, one of Santa Ana's oldest weekly newspapers, to Robert Ramsey, Anaheim man, will be consummated tomorrow morning.

The newspaper now is in the hands of Henry Hodges and D. T. Taylor, who leased it from Lotus H. Louden, publisher of the Anaheim Bulletin.

It is understood that a shopping news published by the Bulletin will remain under the control of Hodges and Taylor, but Ramsey will assume active control of the Bulletin as editor and publisher.

Although the deal was not signed up today, Louden said that there is little doubt but that the matter will be taken care of by tomorrow morning.

Hodges and Taylor leased the Bulletin from Louden last May 1. No purchase price was announced in the pending deal.

STORY OF FEUD MAY SAVE KILLER'S LIFE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 4.—(UP)—A story of a Tennessee mountain family feud may save John Berryman from going to the gallows of Folsom prison for the slaying of John G. Grant, a California turkey raiser.

The feud, Judge T. N. Harvey, president of the state pardon board, told Gov. Frank F. Merriam, was resumed when Berryman met Grant in the flat lands of California's interior, the pardons board had learned. Judge Harvey recommended a complete investigation and a postponement of the execution.

Berryman, a Tennessee war veteran, was convicted of killing Grant, the prosecution charging that robbery was the motive. Berryman said the two went for a ride after a drinking bout and Grant fell from the automobile. He didn't know Grant was dead until he was charged with his murder, he said.

Harvey said Berryman told the story of the feud when he appeared before the board. The judge said that if Berryman's story could be proven, it would provide grounds for commutation of the death sentence.

Clipper Ships May Be Taxed; Webb

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—(UP)—State Attorney General U. S. Webb ruled today that both the city and county of Alameda may tax the clipper ships, trans-Pacific seaplanes of the Pan American Airways at Alameda.

In holding that the planes are subject to taxation, Webb said they could not be exempt as "vessels" because legally they were not vessels despite the fact that they were in service similar to that provided by vessels.

Woodruff in 800 Meters, Hardin, Miss Stephens Also Triumph

OLYMPIC STADIUM, BERLIN, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Jesse Owens, the Ohio State thunderbolt, moved to within one title of scoring his Olympic "triple" today as the U. S. track and field stars won four championships on the third day of competition of the 11th Olympic Games.

After shattering the Olympic 200-meter mark once and equalling it again as he moved from the preliminaries to the semi-finals of that event, Owens broke Ed Hamm's eight-year-old mark in winning the broad jump.

It was the second title for the mid-western Negro who hopes to capture three championships. Owens leaped 26 feet, 5 1/4 inches in taking the broad jump. The former mark was 25 feet, 4 3/8 set by Hamm of the United States in the 1928 games at Amsterdam.

Record on Last Trial

Owens had broken the record in the tests to determine the six finalists and then kept bettering his mark until his third leap of the final when he established the mark of 26 feet, 5 1/4 inches.

Helen Stephens, Fulton, Mo. speedster, won the women's 100-meter finals, covering the distance in 11.5 seconds.

Glenn Hardin of Greenwood, Miss., won the 400-meter hurdle title for the United States—America's first triumph in the event since 1924.

Johnny Woodruff, Pittsburgh Negro, won the 800-meter title, which broke Great Britain's domination of that event which began in 1920. Woodruff was the first American to win the 800 since Ted Meredith came out of nowhere to secure a surprising victory in the 1912 games.

Spoils German Celebration

Owens second jump in the finals in which he reached 26 feet, 39/64 inches to shatter again the mark he had just broken produced one of the most dramatic moments of the Olympics thus far. He streaked

SANTA FE GRANTED NEW BUS FRANCHISE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The Santa Fe railway was granted authority by the state railroad commission today to operate a bus and truck service over the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge upon completion of that structure.

The certificate authorizes the company to transport passengers and baggage from the Santa Fe terminal in San Francisco to the company's terminals in Oakland and Richmond.

This service will replace the present contract service through which the company has been handling trans-bay business through the Southern Pacific Golden Gate ferries.

HIGH LIVING COSTS BLAMED ON DROUGHT

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The food bill of the average American rose sharply in June as result of the drought, a survey by Investors Syndicate showed today.

Food which cost $1 in June, 1935, cost $1.04 this year. Its housing also cost more, the $1 expenditure of 1935 costing $1.11 this year. Clothing declined, 98 cents purchasing what would have cost $1 in 1935.

Cash income was larger, $1.15 for each $1 in June, 1935, but increased expenses brought down real income to $1.11 compared with $1 in the 1935 month. Real income in June dropped below that of May because of the higher living costs.

San Diego Will Honor Army Men

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Major General George S. Simonds, commanding officer of the Ninth Army Corps, and Col. Irving J. Phillips, commander of the 30th Infantry, will visit the San Diego Pacific International Exposition Saturday, Aug. 8, for special services in their honors, it was announced today.

The day has been designated "General Simonds day and 30th Infantry day."

COUNT FUNDS EXHAUSTED FOR SO. MAIN ROAD

Although the project is only 36 per cent completed, Orange county's contribution to the South Main street extension is exhausted this week. Highway Superintendent Nat H. Neff reported to the county supervisors today.

The board was expected to consider, late today, Neff's request for their decision on the problem thus presented.

Members of the board said they recalled that when Supervisor N. E. West brought the project through the board a few months ago, Neff advised that the appropriation provided would not be sufficient under the method of procedure. However, West and the WPA official in charge, estimated that $12,067 set up as the county contribution would be enough.

The state contributed approximately $7400 of the county's share in construction of culverts. The county was required to supply equipment and supervision, WPA supplying labor at a cost estimated to be $12,067, the total cost of the project being estimated at $19,467.

This was for the south section of the extension, extending from Palisades to Corona Del Mar.

Not only was the county estimate far short of the required amount, according to Neff's figures, but the WPA estimate also is falling short, it was indicated. He reported that about $52,000 of WPA funds remain unexpended, although the project is little more than one-third completed.

Consideration of the problem was deferred to the afternoon session.

While no decision was reached by the county supervisors today on the question of extending county police radio facilities to fireboats and life-guard stations along the beach, the board moved to support the plan for coordinating all police radios of the state into a cooperating chain.

Chairman John Mitchell was authorized to sign an application to the federal radio commission for such a coordination, which is said to involve considerable technical changes, possibly affecting present wave-lengths.

The application primarily seeks enlargement of scope for the Orange county station, to permit experiments in the direction of better broadcasting.

Sheriff Logan Jackson was before the board today with a letter from Clarence S. Morrell, head of the state bureau of identification, which letter stated that dissemination of all-point bulletins from the state teletype service, which now are rebroadcast over the county police radio, must be discontinued with service is extended to the agencies other than law enforcement.

Chairman Mitchell expressed the belief that the service should not be extended to the life-guard stations and other such agencies, but Supervisor W. C. Jerome held to the opinion that the county station should give as general a service as possible.

No decision was reached.

Police News

On a warrant issued by Judge Frank Kuehl of Anaheim, Marcial Salgado, 34, of Seventeenth street and Garden Grove road, was arrested and jailed this morning by Deputy Sheriff James Workman on charge of failure to support minor children.

Court Notes

Anna Windhor today petitioned superior court to probate the will of her nephew, the late Arthur G. Morgan, of Fullerton, who died July 20, leaving his aunt as sole executrix to his estate. The petition did not state the nature of value of the estate. The petitioner resides at 145 West Malvern avenue, Fullerton.

Mrs. Willetta M. Armstrong, charged cruelty today in a superior court suit for divorce from Frederick L. Armstrong, who is said to be now in Canada. They married May 1, 1929, and separated June 23, 1935. Attorney Stephen J. Gallagher, Anaheim, represents the plaintiff.

E. Walter Fyne, of Laguna Beach, has filed a petition in superior court for letters of administration over the $1000 estate left by his aunt, the late Isabelle Farp, of Laguna Beach, who died June 25. The heirs include a dozen nieces, nephews, grand-nieces and grand-nephews.

Foreclosure of a $94.50 street assessment lien against a lot at Newport Beach was asked today in a superior court suit filed by Thompson and Company against C. Courtney Jones.

COUP OF SPANISH REBELS IS BALKED BY LOYALISTS

number was not known—seized some barracks and imprisoned those of their fellows who would not join them.

Loyal privates, civil guardsmen, storm guardsmen and militiamen surrounded the rebel barracks. Two men were killed and several wounded on each side.

Fighting ceased until early morning, apparently. Then the attack by surrounding loyalists was renewed. The rebel officers found themselves fighting loyal soldiers inside the barracks and the organized loyalist forces outside.

With the aid of several armored cars, militiamen entered the barracks without resistance during the morning, arrested the rebel officers and released the men imprisoned.

Valencia now is quiet and stores, cafes and factories are operating, the government said.

Start Shelling
The low rumble of distant artillery fire was heard in the environs of the capital this morning after days of comparative quiet.

It meant the resumption of heavy artillery shelling in the mountains north of the city.

Fighting was general, it was announced, along the jagged mountain line running from southwest to northeast, and in the passes through which run the highways to the capital, firing was particularly heavy. It was not, apparently, the major engagement which will decide the fate of the capital and the rebellions.

At several points, the rebel and loyalist posts—there is not a continuous line because of the mountainous terrain—are only a few yards apart and there is an occasional set-to of hand to hand fighting.

SPANISH PRINCES JOIN REBELLION
LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 4. —(UP)—Prince Juan, son of former King Alfonso of Spain, accompanied by the Infante Jose Eugenio Baviera, have arrived at Burgos, Spain, and joined the rebel army as soldiers, according to a dispatch to the newspaper Seculos today.

The newspaper reported that 2800 civil guards at Ciudad Real had joined the rebels and quoted loyalist prisoners as saying that the government forces lack food and munitions.

REVOLT MENACES EUROPEAN PEACE
PARIS, Aug. 4. —(UP)—International complications of potential danger to European peace multiplied today because of the Spanish revolt.

Ugly charges were exchanged among the capitals of the continent, by sources often used by governments themselves as sounding boards.

There were increasingly frequent references to Agadir—the port on the Moroccan coast—to which Germany sent a "token" gunboat in 1911 as a warning to France against encroachment—an incident that might have advanced the date of the World War three years.

Leaving aside the ambitions and fears of statesmen on the Fascist and anti-Fascist side as Spanish Fascists and anti-Fascists fight for the danger of the situation may be shown by the following summary of today's developments:

1. The Paris newspaper, Echo de Paris charged that the German pocket battleship Deutschland, accompanied a destroyer, prevented a loyalist warship bombardment of rebel forts by steaming into Ceuta harbor, Morocco, as the loyal ships were about to open fire.

2. The Paris newspaper Oeuvre asserted that letters from Milan to Italian exiles in Paris said 36 renegades of the Breda Airplane factory worked July 26 and July 27 painting out insignia of 12 bombing airplanes which left at 11:30 p. m. July 27 for Sardinia and that 13 bombers left from other airports. French information is that bombing planes of Italian type seen over Morocco were from Sardinia.

3. The United Press correspondent at Casablanca, French Morocco, heard reports from Tetuan, Spanish Morocco, that the rebels ordered 20 planes of Italian and German make.

4. The Socialist newspaper Populaire here charged that the acrobatic pilot Michel de Trovay, director of the Breguet Airplane company, was recruiting aviators for the rebels.

5. The Nationalist newspaper Jour Here, unfriendly to the government, hinted that four French civil planes which it said were sent to Madrid to "evacuate refugees" might have been sent really to aid the Spanish government.

6. Jean Longuet, French Socialist leader, urged the Spanish government to charge Italy before the league of nations with violating the league covenant by aiding the rebels. What good this would do after the Ethiopian fiasco, Longuet did not suggest.

SECRETARY OF STATE WARNS AMERICANS
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. —(UP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today indicated 1000 American Nationals must accept responsibility for their safety if they stay in Spanish soil during the bloody civil war.

The secretary expressed himself as exasperated at the tenacity with which Americans cling to Spain despite street fighting, and artillery and aerial bombardments.

Americans in Spain have left. Hull's warning was considered to have put the state department on record favoring immediate and complete removal of Americans from Spain.

Altogether, 517 Americans have been removed from Spain. It is estimated that between 1000 and 1200 remain in the country. Of these, approximately 170 are in and around Madrid. There are also approximately 75 Puerto Ricans and Filipinos in this area.

Offer Transportation
Transportation facilities have been offered these American nationals to leave Spain via train to Valencia, where the Quincy steamer by to take them on board. Only about 100 Americans took advantage of this offer.

Consul William E. Chapman at Bilbao reported there are still 89 Americans in his consular district, despite the visits to that port of the Oklahoma and Cayuga, not to mention British and French warships. Only about ten of the Americans at Bilbao desire to be evacuated, Chapman said.

Consul William W. Corcoran, at Vigo, reported there are still 41 registered Americans residing in his district. He estimated there are "several hundred" others, who have not registered with the consulate, visiting relatives in Galicia and Asturias.

Consul Lynn W. Franklin, at Barcelona, estimated there are 100 American nationals in the Barcelona consular district. This does not include those Americans living on Mallorca island, of the Balearic group. Regular steamship and railroad facilities are open, at least for the present, for those who wish to leave Barcelona, Franklin said.

Consul George M. Graves, at Malaga, said there are some 50 American citizens still in his district. The cruiser Quincy was informed received at Barcelona yesterday that communications between Malaga and the rest of Spain had been interrupted, and that the Quincy might be needed at Malaga.

BOYS CONFESS TO BURGLARY IN BUENA PARK

Three Buena Park boys, the oldest of whom is 14 years of age, were held at detention home today, following their arrest by Deputy Sheriff James Workman yesterday on charges of burglary.

Two of the youths, one said to be 9 years old, declared they cut a screen from a window of the home of Mabel B. Looney, 645 Marshall street, Buena Park, Sunday night, ransacked the house and took $2. They named the third boy as their companion when they burglarized the Butler residence in Buena Park, July 9.

The two boys confessed they went to the John Leahy service station, Marshall and Commonwealth streets, Buena Park, after the burglary, and spent most of the money, saving just enough to buy a couple of show tickets, playing the marble and slot machines, and for ice cream. Miss Looney is principal of the Lindbergh school, Buena Park.

at the emergency hospital, the widow was treated for bruises she said her husband inflicted in a quarrel a week ago. Both of her eyes were blackened.

Held Autopsy Today
Bradford had been dead 14 hours, physicians estimated. The autopsy was scheduled for today.

Mrs. Bradford was transferred to the Los Angeles county hospital. Relatives and friends said they planned to place her in a sanitarium for a time.

Mrs. Bradford said she is the daughter of the late Fleming Van Rensselaer of Atlanta, Ga., and niece of the late Mrs. Nina Van Rensselaer of Los Angeles, eldest daughter of Mrs. Anna Harriman Van Rensselaer, sister of the rail magnate.

She married Bradford four years ago and her husband had worked only intermittently, while they lived on her income.

Last February, she said, she received $9000 from the estate of Mrs. Nina Van Rensselaer. Bradford, she said, was the son of Mrs. Della Bradford of Greenville, Ill. She said she had been married before, to Mel Morrissey of Sacramento, who had custody of their 7-year-old daughter.

PETITION FOR CEMETERIES CALLED BACK

Application of G. H. Sanders for authority to construct a cemetery on Temple Hills at Laguna Beach was formally withdrawn by his representative, Fred Leach, at today's meeting of the county supervisors, as opponents of the plan rallied to continue their fight against it.

A delegation headed by R. E. McCrea, Laguna Beach real estate dealer, appeared before the board with a protest petition carrying 120 signatures of Laguna Beach residents.

Chairman John Mitchell informed the delegation that Leach already had withdrawn the application, but, at McCrea's request, the petition was received and filed as a matter of record.

Leach, who explained that opposition to the proposal for the memorial park had caused Sanders to abandon the plan, stated that notice of hearing on the matter, posted at Laguna Beach, would be removed.

The county planning commission had conducted two hearings on the cemetery matter, and filed a report with the supervisors, no recommendation being made as to granting or refusing the Sanders application.

SEEK PEACE IN LABOR REVOLT

council — acquittal — appeared to have been definitely rejected. William Green, A. F. of L. president, continued to insist that only dissolution of the C. I. O. can prevent punitive action.

Peace Hope Fades
As the council met for the second day of the unique trial, Green said chances of effecting a truce were "less bright" than at any time since the C. I. O. was formed last November. He had been hopeful of an amicable accord.

Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward P. McGuire, a close trouble-shooter of the administration, despairing of an immediate accord, dropped his role of peace emissary. He stood ready, however, to resume his efforts if it appears they might be successful.

Despite warnings of many labor leaders that drastic action might affect the whole course of American labor relations, the proposal for outright suspension.

Several council members said privately that they believed there was no alternative but suspension in view of what they hold is a direct insurrection by the C. I. O. in independently organizing mass production industries without A. F. of L. sanction.

John P. Frey, gray-haired head of the metal trade department, acting as prosecutor, led the group demanding expulsion of the 12 unions.

Frey expected to conclude his case today. Yesterday he read the charges of "fomenting a dual unionism" against the C. I. O. leaders, made a lengthy preliminary statement, and then began an argument for suspension.

None of the 14 members will defend the "rebels." When Frey has concluded, the council will sit as a jury. Frey said a decision "possibly may be ready tomorrow."

After sweltering in 95-degree temperatures during the opening day of the trial, the council moved today to a 110-a-day, air-cooled hotel room.

Peace proposals advanced during the first day of the trial were coolly received. Green said a formula for settlement of the dispute, advanced by Henry K. Ohl, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, would be studied.

Seek Special Committee
Ohl proposed appointment of a special committee to study industrial unionization, as opposed to craft unions, and to report to the 1937 convention. Meanwhile, the C. I. O. would function with no facilities restricted to the steel and rubber industries.

The proposal did not find favor at Lewis headquarters. Lewis insists that the council is without authority to act against his group and that the full convention only has authority to suspend C. I. O. members or to restrict its activities.

L. A. BANKER IN TALK BEFORE ROTARY CLUB
Members of the Santa Ana Rotary club at their noon meeting at Green Cat cafe today, heard an interesting address based on problems centering around the distribution of estates. The speaker, E. L. Bond, vice president and chairman of the trust department of the Los Angeles branch of Bank of America, was introduced by Program Chairman Chester Warren.

Trust services provided by banks are divided into two main branches, the speaker said. The first duty of the trustee is to effect distribution of the savings, and the second duty is to provide business management of the estates left in trust. In his address, Bond pointed out all persons who are so fortunate as to accumulate wealth are extremely interested in effecting ways and means of passing that wealth on to those whom they leave after death.

There are numerous methods of arranging the distribution of estates, Bond explained. The most popular method, he said, is the use of the will. He particularly urged that wills be drawn only after consultation with attorneys. He also pointed out the necessity of reviewing wills at least once every year in order to keep them up to date and in step with changing fortunes.

The musical portion of the program today was provided by the Santa Ana American Legion Auxiliary sextette, accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong. The group was introduced by Past Post Commander Hunter Leach.

KEN Murray SAYS:

August 4.—Funny, after all that fighting over whether to send an Olympic squad to Nazi Germany, it now develops that our own team officials are the ones who've been committing the atrocities.... Boys, in case you don't know, Spain is the place to train for civil war.

If the officials are really out to defeat the American team, then they should be made to wear uniforms just like the other contestants.

Of course, it's a good thing the games started when they did.... A few more battles and our Olympic Expeditionary Forces would be eligible for the Soldiers' Bonus.

And anyway, the truth of the matter is that we sent our athletes over there to win medals, not halos.

AUTOIST HELD TO ANSWER IN TRAFFIC DEATH

Jose B. Mesa, 36, who said his real name is Jose B. Maese, of Madrid camp, Irvine, today was held to answer to superior court on a charge of manslaughter arising from the death July 25 at Orange county hospital of three-year-old Cecil Raymond Trujillo of Delhi, in a strange traffic mishap, July 25.

Maese faced Judge Kenneth E. Morrison in Santa Ana justice court this morning at preliminary hearing on a charge of hit-and-run. Following conclusion of testimony, Judge Morrison held Maese to answer on a manslaughter charge.

Officers George Boyd and N. C. Nelson testified regarding Maese's arrest. Witnesses from a birthday party broken up by Maese's alleged wild driving, also testified. The driver, arrestedly angered because some of the girls at the party would not accompany him on a ride to the beach, backed his car into a Delhi home, crushing the baby. A coroner's jury held the Trujillo baby came to his death through the gross negligence of Maese, who was jailed after the accident on charges of drunk driving and hit-and-run. Bail was set at $10,000.

THREE ARE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Three persons were recovering today from injuries received Monday night on Huntington Beach boulevard, half a mile south of Midway City, when cars operated by Frank Rathbun, 18, Los Angeles, and F. B. Sutton, Los Angeles met with accidents as the drivers avoided a collision. The accidents occurred as Rathbun and Sutton drove off of the highway to avoid a three-car crash. As Rathbun sought to bring his car back to the roadway it turned over. The Sutton car, Rathbun said, then collided with a telephone pole. Rathbun and Cliff Potts, 19, Huntington Beach, and W. R. Grave, 17, of Huntington Beach, were injured.

Captain H. C. Meehan of the Orange county unit of the California Highway Patrol today left for Big Bear Lake on a long delayed vacation of two weeks and a much needed rest after regular duty of 15 to 20 hours per day during the recent citrus pickers strike.

Captain Meehan and his family will while away the hours, camping and fishing. During the captain's absence, Officer W. W. Meyer will be in charge as acting captain, a position he has taken annually for several years during Captain Meehan's vacation time.

BUENA PARK IN PROTEST OVER RASTOR DIVORCE DAIRY IN AREA

Action to extend the boundaries of the Buena Park sanitary district, in order to exclude a proposed new dairy in the area between Manchester boulevard and Whitaker street, was in prospect this afternoon by the board of supervisors, as a Buena Park delegation appeared to protest the dairy.

Because under present regulations, the county health department is not empowered to refuse a dairy permit if county ordinance provisions are complied with, extension of the sanitary district boundaries to include the proposed site was suggested as the only solution. The sanitary district board then would have jurisdiction over the area.

Mrs. Hattie Allen, Buena Park real estate dealer, was spokesman for the delegation. F. Jongbloed, applicant for the permit, was not present.

Extension of sanitary district boundaries would not affect dairies already established in the area to be added, it was pointed out.

"Democracy is gone. Our people have abdicated their rights. We see 40,000,000 people now living in poverty or near it. This year • • • will be the last time that either of the old parties will be dominant."

He told the assembled crowd he was sure they wanted to defeat "a man running for congress in this district," and added:

"We have a man representing us who is an honest man—the Rev. C. E. Hatfield. He is a man on whom we can pin our faith."

The Rev. Smith, who adopts the practice of his former chief, the late Sen. Huey P. Long, of telling his audience when he has made a remark "calling for an ovation, said:

"I address myself to you, Pen-dergast political bosses and I know you are here."

Thomas J. Pendergast, now ill in New York, is chief of the Democratic state and city machines.

"In my opinion," Smith said, "the people will nominate the Rev. Mr. Hatfield but the counting of the votes is in the lap of the gods. In Kansas City there are wards where the votes aren't counted, they are put in the scales and weighed."

When several old people, apparently decided it was bedtime, left, Smith charged the Pendergast organization had staged a walkout on him.

"We owe Jasper a sweet little booing," Smith said.

The crowd gave it.

tion of Dr. Thorpe's attorneys. A. P. Michael Narlian, counsel for the husband, announced he would probably appear in court tomorrow and asked similar permission to take depositions in Tampa counter-acting Miss Astor's.

The film actress' lawyer said that among Tampa citizens he would seek to interview would be A. D. Carter, Mrs. Leona Carter, Bert E. Carter, Mac Cross, Howard Smith and William M. Rowlett. The depositions will be taken, he said, before Notary Public Joe Williams there.

Mrs. Miles' name entered the court battle over custody of 4-year-old Marylyn Thorpe when Attorney Woolley declared that Dr. Thorpe refused to answer questions about her when he was interviewed for a deposition.

He was asked, the attorney said, whether he had married Mrs. Miles in Florida, whether he lived with her in Los Angeles, and whether he or she ever sought or obtained a Mexican or any other divorce.

Dr. Thorpe is under citation to appear in court Monday morning and show cause why he should not be held in contempt for refusing to answer the questions.

Attorney Woolley, after obtaining his court authorization for depositions, said he probably would not oppose Dr. Thorpe's efforts to do likewise.

"We are anxious to have all the facts established he said. Efforts were underway, meantime, to settle the case quietly out of court.

Adjourn Hearing
Trial of Miss Astor's suit to obtain custody of their four-year-old daughter, Marylyn, was adjourned until Monday after she admitted a love affair with George Kaufman while living with Dr. Thorpe.

Her friends, friends of Dr. Thorpe, and, particularly, executives of the motion picture industry, always sensitive to anything bearing on the moral tone of the industry or the box office values of leading players, hoped the trial would not be resumed.

CHARGE OF COMMUNISM IS HURLED IN STRIKE TRIAL

The direct charge of Communism was flung into the riot trial of 13 Mexican strikers by an exasperated prosecutor in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court as the state concluded its case late yesterday, and today the defense had retaliated with attempts to inject the strike issue into the case by charging oppression of workers.

In a sudden outburst just before the state rested its case, Assistant District Attorney James L. Davis accused Defense Counsel Clarence Rust of Communist affiliations.

Rust had expressed inability to understand a state witness who was testifying regarding the alleged attack by strikers upon orange pickers in the E. Tucker grove near Anaheim July 6.

"No wonder you can't understand English," Davis shot at Rust. "You were raised and educated in Russia."

Rust indignantly protested and the court cautioned Davis against repetition of prejudicial remarks.

A few minutes later, as the state finished and Rust arose to make his opening statement to the jury, regarding what the defense expected to prove, Davis was protesting Rust's remarks.

"We shall prove that these men were forced to strike by starvation wages, sometimes as low as two or three dollars a week," Rust told the jury.

"We object to that statement as not being within the issues of this case," Counsel knows that he will prove no such thing, as such evidence would be inadmissible," Davis declared.

Judge Allen, however, allowed the statement to stand and refused to restrict Rust's remarks to the jury.

"When such evidence is presented, I will rule on it," the court said.

In his statement to the jury, Rust also said that proof would be provided that the 13 defendants had been guilty of no violence, but had merely gone to the Tucker grove to urge pickers not to work. Thoroughly aroused by that time, Davis pounced upon the first defense witness, Primo Rodriguez, one of the defendants, in a grilling cross-examination.

Rodriguez had testified that the group of strikers had met on the morning of the riot at La Jolla and planned to proceed in a group to various orchards at 2 p. m. to urge pickers to quit work. He said about ten cars had pulled up at the Tucker grove, the crowd including the 13 defendants, other Mexicans, there ahead of them, ran from the grove about that time, he said.

The defense theory is that the other Mexicans were the rioters, if any riot occurred. The defendants, said Rodriguez, indulged in no violence and were in the highway when arrested. He was pulled from a car by an officer, who put handcuffs on him and then "beat him up," the witness said. He identified a bloody shirt, which he said he had worn at the time.

Deputy Sheriff Steve Duhart, of the sheriff's farm detail, had earlier testified for the prosecution that he slapped Rodriguez when the latter ordered him to get out of the way or be run over by the automobile. Prosecutor Davis apparently wasn't going to let Rodriguez's story pass unchallenged. "You were cussing and swearing at the officers and cursing the government and everything else, weren't you?" he shouted at the witness.

Rust promptly objected, but the denial.

Other defendants were called by the defense in rapid succession, to give testimony similar to that of Rodriguez.

Dolores Ramirez testified that they were not even with the group of strikers, but merely happened to pass in a car. Tony Macias followed them on the stand as an alibi witness. Macias is not a defendant.

Apollinar Montoya, striker alleged to have wielded the steel cable upon Foreman Sam Housaker of the picking crew at the Tucker ranch, was on the witness stand this afternoon, almost the last of the 13 defendants called to testify.

He denied using any weapon or perpetrating any violence. Like other defendants, he asserted that, instead of being on the aggressive, as Filipino pickers had testified for the state, the Filipinos had pursued the strikers, being armed with guns and other weapons.

With the defense expected to rest its case at mid-afternoon, it was believed that the state's rebuttal would be finished, and argument to the jury commenced by attorneys before adjournment tonight.

Adelbert Chaffee

Called by Death

Funeral services for Adelbert L. Chaffee, 83, who passed away at his home, 1005 Custer street, Santa Ana, early today, will be held from the Smith and Tutill Mortuary Thursday at 3:30 p. m. The Rev. George A. Warner will officiate. Interment will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

Mr. Chaffee, who had lived in Santa Ana for the past 27 years, leaves two children, his son, Neil Chaffee, and a daughter, Miss Lily Chaffee.

Something of the consternation the bride-to-be felt when the groom-to-be failed to appear at the church on the appointed hour was felt by officers of the Orange County National Guard when Robert M. Holt, 18, of 1005 South Main street, Santa Ana, failed to appear at headquarters on the appointed hour to leave for San Luis Obispo summer training camp three weeks ago.

At least the two situations were similarly important. For today, Holt, under court martial for failing to attend drills and failing to appear for the northward camping excursion, began serving 15 days in the county jail. He was arrested, tried and sentenced by officers of the local National Guard unit and jailed by Captain Kellogg and Sergeant Pennox. He was learning, according to reports, that U. S. army discipline is considerably more than a phrase to be spoken of.

For today, Holt, under court martial for failing to attend drills and failing to appear for the northward camping excursion, began serving 15 days in the county jail. He was arrested, tried and sentenced by officers of the local National Guard unit and jailed by Captain Kellogg and Sergeant Pennox. He was learning, according to reports, that U. S. army discipline is considerably more than a phrase to be spoken of.

YOUTH FAILS TO ATTEND CAMP; GOES TO JAIL

Something of the consternation the bride-to-be felt when the groom-to-be failed to appear at the church on the appointed hour was felt by officers of the Orange County National Guard when Robert M. Holt, 18, of 1005 South Main street, Santa Ana, failed to appear at headquarters on the appointed hour to leave for San Luis Obispo summer training camp three weeks ago.

At least the two situations were similarly important. ## COLLECTIVE BARGAINING UNION PLANS TO BE DEBATED FOR LABOR DAY

Good and bad points of collective bargaining will be debated tonight at the Forum for Political and Economic Education in the junior college building on North Main street, according to chairman of the occasion, Dr. Merrill W. Hollingsworth.

Dr. Hollingsworth declares the subject under debate is one of the liveliest facing the general public today. The public is invited and will be granted the privilege of speaking on the subject during the general discussion period.

The debate subject is: "Resolved, that collective bargaining, as practiced in the United States, raises the standard of living of society as a whole." Ernest Wooster, deputy county auditor, will argue for the affirmative and W. H. (Ted) Blanding, for the negative.

Dr. Hollingsworth pointed to the difficulties now facing the American Federation of Labor, which has 12 unions on trial for insurrection, as an example of the importance of the question under discussion tonight.

The Forum, which has as its purpose, enlightenment through an exchange of ideas, will begin at 7:30 p. m.

AWARDING OF CITY PRINTING HELD UP

Bids for city printing in the 1936-37 fiscal year, and for advertising of ordinances, resolutions, etc., were opened by city council last night and taken under advisement until August 17.

The Orange County Commercial Printers association, made up of 10 local commercial printing concerns, joined together in submitting a lone bid—total, $1723.25—for city printing and will divide the work piece-meal. Their bid was at the usual scale of prices made to the city. It was referred to the city auditor for checking.

For publicizing, or advertising, ordinances, resolutions, etc., two bids were submitted; the low bid was presented by the Orange County Reporter, 30 cents per inch for each insertion, and council took the matter under advisement until August 17.

The Register did not submit an advertising bid this year.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

By PAUL MALLON

CALM—

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Diplomatic circles here are busy with the coming European war. The Spanish civil war will not come from the Spanish political conflict.

The Spanish civil war, as they see it, is a confused local problem with only dangling international phases. It is being called a war of Fascism versus Communism, but it really is not as clear-cut or as deep as that. The Spanish Fascists are split into monarchists and Republicans and the so-called Communists are cut at least four ways among Socialists, Syndicalists, Communist and Anarchists, with a few other bright-eyed 'ists also overcrowding their ranks.

It is true that Mussolini was caught slipping a little backhand aid to the so-called Fascist side and the radical French government tried to help the misnamed Communist side without getting too deeply involved, but this is no more than expected political maneuvering for domestic effect in Italy and France.

It is certainly nothing to go to war about, and is not likely to become that serious.

HEAT—
The Spanish trouble is fundamentally a growing pain. The country has been in the throes of a revolution since the republic was instituted five years ago. The revolution was designed to throw down a feudal landlord system which is a remnant of the middle ages (peon wages average about 25 to 40 cents a day). It will take time.

The leftist government has not been accomplishing the change satisfactorily. It has been brutal, disorganized and inconsistent. That is why the opposition picked up guns and started shooting.

In the long range, no matter who wins the current battles, or what labels they wear, the reformers will continue. The fighting may even help to clear the political confusion and hasten the result, but, when the reforms are ultimately accomplished years hence, they will represent very little more than has already been accomplished in most other countries, with less loss of life.

The only difference with the Spanish revolution is that the Latin blood is hotter.

LADY LUCK—
The State department is naturally taking credit for the successful lifting of Americans from the Castilian cauldron. It was a neat evacuation job, but negotiators will tell you in private that the credit is due more to President Roosevelt's luck than to their own sagacity. They now swear by his rabbit's foot internationally as well as domestically.

For publicity purposes only, they hint Mr. Hull moves his two cruisers swiftly because he had an inside tip from Britain that the situation was going to develop as seriously as it did. The fact is Mr. Hull had no tip.

The two cruisers were luckily handy at nearby ports solely because the revolution broke at the right time. Also, Mr. Hull was still smarting from criticism of his failure to take adequate precautions for protection of Americans in Addis Ababa last spring. (At that time the British had a reputation for their staff and the Americans huddled in the legation there.)

This time Mr. Hull took no chances. He moved before the situation required.

As every executive is entitled to credit for all acts of fate, even the Republicans cannot deny him this one.

CONCESSION—
The theory of Roosevelt luck has become so widely accepted that at least one outstanding observer of political trends now is discounting his own election figures on that basis. He says the president's whole political career indicates he is unusually fortunate, and adroit enough to take advantage of the breaks.

Example: Last winter, Democratic drum beaters admitted the trend was away from the president. Two things happened beyond the control of his opposition. One was the flood, which gave him an opportunity to exhibit his federal spending and relief measures to an excellent advantage. The other was Governor Smith's Liberty League speech. This year it is the drought, which has furnished him with a vehicle to show worth even in the dying resettlement administration.

STAY AT HOMES—
There is now talk of creating a permanent European squadron of the navy. Mr. Hull says he is "not unimpressed" by such a possibility. What he means is he is against it.

Diplomats believe it would create too much inconvenience and work. With no home port to tie in, the squadron would naturally move from port to port and require each one. Diplomatic repercussions might trail the ships.

The navy crowd is tired of moving from one west coast port to another, and from there to the Alaskan fishing grounds. They long for the more socially inclined European ports, but the chances are two to one their longing will be unfulfilled.

Mr. Hull usually has his way.

WESTMINSTER

Among those attending were Mrs. Ruth Penhall, Mrs. Harry Penhall, Mrs. Virginia Patterson, Mrs. J. H. Wal-George Finley and daughter, Ed Finley, Charles Murdy, J. H. Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. James Morgan and Mrs. Alford's brother, William Nankervis and family.

When Will Their Secret Be Out?

As keepers of secrets, Charlie Chaplin and Paulette Goddard seem to hold the championship in Hollywood.

Just to make sure that they don't reveal the answers to the questions that are puzzling the film colony, Paulette is keeping her conversation to a whisper in the pose at right. Hollywood isn't sure whether they're just close friends, an engaged pair—or whether they're married.

COUNCIL NOTES

Representing the Committee for United Political Action, C. H. Stearns, 1124 West Third street, last night asked city council for permission to use Birch Park Saturday afternoon between 4 and 6 p. m. for a mass meeting at which N. E. West, candidate for congress and Bryan Botick, candidate for state senate, will speak. Subject to the possibility the time has been allocated to another group for a meeting, council granted Stearns request.

The special council committee, composed of Councilmen Joe Smith, Ernest Layton and William Penn, which has under consideration the opening of Flower street from Edinger to the south city limits, last night was granted an additional two weeks to study the situation and make report.

Council last night granted Councilman William Penn permission to leave the state for one month. Penn will leave at a time not yet decided upon, for his annual vacation.

An invitation to city council to sit in box seats at the "Coates night" soft ball game Friday night, here, was extended last night. The councilmen indicated they would attend the game.

Request of Frank F. Ey, Jr. for permission to construct drive-in on West Fifth street and on Shattuck street, was ordered held for public consideration at next council meeting, August 17, when council met last night. The location was ordered posted for public hearing as a "special usage" spot. Palmer said he would grow 90 percent of the vegetables and other produce he expected to sell at the location; that he neighbors did not object to his plan, and that he hoped, later, to construct a neat building at the location.

Councilman Ernest H. Layton last night announced to city council that the matter of extending West Fifth street to a connection with West Fifth, as a means of permitting another inlet and outlet to and from Santa Ana, is being studied with Pacific Electric officials also conferring on the question. Layton said Pacific Electric officials are considering an exchange of the necessary right of way for a two-acre tract in the western end of the city which they wish to use in construction of additional spur tracks.

Upon recommendation of city planning commission, the city council last night ordered notices of public hearing posted relative to W. A. Atkinson's request for the rezoning of the southwest corner of Eighth and Birch streets from residential to first class apartment zone. The hearing was set for August 17 at 7:30 p. m. in the council chamber at which time those opposed and those in favor of the change will be heard. Atkinson offered $5 to pay for posting the notices.

On behalf of the J. C. Penney company, Gilbert Weston-Stearns, Inc., was granted permission by city council last night to install an electric conduit against the east wall of the Hervey building, occupied by the J. C. Penney company, along the Bush street side, near Fourth and Bush. The conduit will furnish electricity for the store.

STRIKEOUT BY LIGHTNING
BUETE, Mont., (UP)—Le Roy Burns, 64, insists he would have won a local ball game if he had not been struck out by lightning. He had just pitched a telling ball when the electric flash struck the metal button on the top of his baseball cap. He filed his complaint against the unfair strikeout from a hospital cot, where his injuries, which were not serious, were dressed.

Between Two Fires in Spanish Revolt

The British garrison on impregnable Rock of Gibraltar at the entrance to the Mediterranean found itself surrounded by the Spanish revolution, with shells from combatants bursting overhead. Rebels forces at Ceuta, to the south, were being attacked by loyalists, while rebel gunboats bombarded Linea, to the north. The rock is seen towering above parading British troops.

13 YEAR OLD WANDERER IS GIVEN HOME—AFTER SEARCH

Thirteen-year-old Frankie Williams is a soldier of adventure without a home, he admitted yesterday when he was apprehended at Birch park by Officer Charles Neer.

After teaming around with Officer Neer for some time, seeking a home in the 900-block of East First street, which Frankie finally admitted never existed, and after teaming around some more with Officer N. C. Nelson in Tustin, seeking another home there, which also does not exist, Frankie was sent to detention home for a while.

"Yeah, I been livin' here in Santa Ana for a month," said the freckled Frankie with a smile. "Been cuttin' lawns for a livin' and sleepin' on porches and in the park. Was borned in Yuma, Arizona. I ran away from home a year ago, too, and have a habit of jes' circlatin' around."

Asked where he lived, he led Officer Neer to a residence on East First street. "That's it," said Frankie. And he went to the door, as the officer stood by.

"Why don't you go on in," asked Neer. "Oh, I guess they isn't anyone at home," Frankie answered. Pointing to a woman who lived at the place, Frankie said she was his mother.

"Why the idea!" the woman was reported as exclaiming. "He isn't my boy at all!"

Then Frankie explained his parents are Walter Larry Williams and Helen Williams "who used to live in Tustin." So Frankie went to Tustin with Officer Nelson.

But the only home he and the officers could find was the detention home, and that's where he is, until a better home comes along.

TRI COUNTIES GROUP TO VOTE ON IRVINE SUIT

Officials of the Tri-Counties Water Conservation association today placed ballots in the mail to contributing members of the association in an effort to determine the position of members on the proposition advanced by Orange county to settle the long-standing dispute over water rights along the Santa Ana river.

Secretary C. A. Palmer of the Orange County Water district, negotiating agency for Orange county in the effort to settle the suit filed in federal court by James Irvine to restrain upper river interests from spreading water to the harm of Orange county, today revealed this latest move in the negotiations for settlement of the water battle.

Palmer said that the conservation association, central figure in the argument, has mailed out letters to contributing members asking for a vote on the compromise agreement submitted recently by Orange county.

Details of the proposition offered by Orange county have not been made public, and will not be until some sort of understanding is reached between Orange county and upper river county interests, Palmer said. However, he said that there is no doubt but what some compromise will have to be reached in order to effect a settlement.

Orange county stands opposed to the spreading operations as carried out along the Santa Ana river, holding that these water spreading operations result in checking the flow of Santa Ana river water which otherwise would come into Orange county. It is hoped that some basis for agreement can be reached regarding the amount of water which can be spread in the upper river territory before starting spreading operations.

BURGLARS ARE ACTIVE OVER WEEKEND HERE

Apparently committed by the same person, a series of burglaries was being investigated by city police today.

Most recently invaded homes, reports filed today declared, were those of S. H. Druce, 1115 French street, and O. H. Harmon, 724 1/2 French street, and W. B. Lockett, 2035 North Broadway. Yesterday, reports showed the homes of Arthur W. Angle, 311 Wakeham street; Clarence Skiles, 302 French street, and O. H. Harmon, 724 1/2 East Pine, were entered by a burglar whose methods of thieving at each place were almost identical.

The burglar generally cut window screens and crawled through the window, ransacking all rooms and leaving the homes in a topsyturvy condition.

At the Graham home, he cut a screen, placed a newspaper beneath the door, jiggled the key from the inside of the locked door to the floor where it landed on the paper and was then drawn to the outside. With the key, he unlocked the door and entered the house.

In most places, little loot was obtained but at the Angle home, jewelry and trinkets valued at $100, and at the Harmon home, a $250 watch, were obtained. The burglaries occurred during the week end.

Police News

Reported stolen Saturday afternoon from Fourth and Birch streets, a bicycle belonging to F. W. Timm, of 901 Oak street, was returned to the owner yesterday, according to a police report. R. L. Talley, 1908 South Main, found the vehicle and reported the find to police.

Arrested by Officers W. H. Heard and L. H. Nicholson last night at 1201-2 North Flower street, Milton Mitchell, 42, of Santa Ana and Pomona, was charged with being drunk and with assaulting his wife. He was jailed.

Mrs. Paul Schockley of 529 North Birch street, who recovered at Orange county hospital Sunday from inhaling gas fumes, police were informed, after a family argument, left today by bus for Fort Smith, Ark. Police were called to the Schockley apartment again last night, where they were asked to settle another family argument.

A man driving an automobile allegedly registered to Abie Lee Hale, of Taft, crashed into two parked cars in front of 1040 East Fourth street last night and disappeared, according to city police who are investigating. The two damaged cars were registered to C. H. Green, 604 Lacy street, and John Harbour, 1401 North Sycamore. The alleged hit-and-run driver was being sought for questioning today.

Mosquitoes

The worst mosquitoes in the world, travelers agree, are to be found in Alaska, where the stinging pests can actually bite a man to death. How do Alaskans protect themselves? By burning BUAHCHI! Nothing like it, they say, to give you absolute protection. It's sure death to the pests—safe for humans and domestic animals. ## Peppery Fight Against Eviction

A barrage of pepper and flour hurled from upper windows opened the summer battle of Sunnyside Gardens residents in New York City against efforts to evict tenants who defaulted on their mortgages. Neighbors are seen bombarding city marshals with pepper as they move furnishings out of the barbed wire and sandbagged home of Mrs. Toni Maxwell.

$154,115 FOR RELIEF SPENT HERE IN JULY

Uncle Sam cut down on his relief expenditures in Orange county somewhat during the past month, but still managed to distribute a total of $154,115.53 to close to 3000 families dependent on government relief operations.

July expenditures from the Works Progress administration aggregated $131,959.34, it was revealed today by Harry Wetmore, WPA auditor. The July figure was less than the previous two months. In May the expenditures totaled $154,517.02 and in June the figure was $143,751.35.

The most money ever expended in a single month by the WPA here was last February, when $178,544.04 was spent. During the past month there was an average caseload of 2091 on 61 WPA projects, with 287 on 10 federal projects.

According to Paymaster E. J. Seward of the SRA, the total expenditure on SRA for the past month amounted to but $25,926.19, the lowest figure in any month since the inauguration of the State Emergency administration here. In June the figure was $26,549.56. The average caseload on SRA for the past month was 492.

However, Director Terrence H. Halloran of the SRA has reported an increase in the intake of new cases during the past few weeks.

LARGE CROWDS AT FOUR SQUARE MEET

Capacity crowds greeted two of the special speakers at the Four Square church, Fairview and Sycamore streets, in the last two nights. Sunday night Tom Liddicoat spoke. Last night 750 persons were present to hear Dr. Claire Britton, who recently returned from a world tour. Moving pictures were shown of many European countries.

Tonight, the Rev. Hardy Mitchell, pastor and evangelist, of the Gospel Tabernacle, Los Angeles, and Radio Evangelist will be at the church to conduct the service.

There will be no regular service Friday night, as a large delegation will be going to Angelus temple for an all day service.

MAC CRASHES DRESSING ROOM

Owens To Give Olympic Oaks To His Three Schools

FRANK WYKOFF DISAPPOINTED

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Thanks to an old speakeasy card I had forgotten to weed out of my wallet, and which was sprinkled with enough salt lettering to impress German policemen, I was in the American dressing room when our boys came in after running one, two, and four in the 100 meters final.

Reporters are not supposed to set foot in Olympic dressing rooms, which are buried deep in the stone and steel of the stadium and are accessible only to those few who have enough official credentials to pass the half dozen sentries who guard a half dozen grilles from doors.

I decided on the desperate measure of a speakeasy card. I worked beautifully. Brass-baited "schupos" who had treated me so roughly only a few minutes before bowed deferentially and passed me on.

Jake Weber, the old Fordham trainer, was working over the three steeplechases—Glen Dawson, Joe McCuskey and Harold Manning—when I walked in. They wanted to know how America did in the 100 meters, for the dressing room is so remote that not even the roar of a hundred thousand persons reaches it. Even as I told them, Owens, Metcalfe and Wykoff burst through the door.

One look at Owens and you didn't have to be told he was the winner. His laurel wreath still was on his head, his gold medal in his hand, and a two-foot grin split his face. And tucked under his arm was the little memorial oak tree that goes with victory. Manning, Dawson and McCuskey and this reporter rushed to congratulate him.

"Thanks," he said. "Don't forget Ralph and Frank. They ran beautiful races."

Jesse looked around and called to Metcalfe.

"Ralph, I saw pictures of the finish before I came up," he said, "and boy were you catching me at the finish! You mustn't have been more than half a yard behind—and were you boiling! And Frank, you were close, too."

Fear Wetherell Out Of St. Louis Tennis

Failure of the Southern California tournament to produce transportation funds probably will keep Lewis Wetherell, Santa Ana tennis champion, out of the National Public Parks tournament.

Wetherell won the Southern California title and was supposed to be sent to the finals in St. Louis week after next. But now he has the choice of paying his own way or remaining at home, and he has about decided to stay here. Wetherell has a job on the University of Southern California campus so would be a double loser by making the trip.

The Santa Ana youth won the men's singles championship in the Santa Ana Open tourney here Sunday for the second time.

INDIAN 'DEATH GRIP' PAIN IN NECK TO LUTZE

BY PAUL VISSMAN

Returning from the eastern wrestling wars, Chief Little Wolf defeated Nick Lutze in a two-out-of-three fall match before 2000 at the Orange County Athletic club last night.

Little Wolf won when Lutze fainted after the Indian had applied his famous "death grip," to get the second fall in 2:12 minutes. The former Venice life guard was revived by Referee Col. Ted Hopkins, the club physician and attendants and carried to his corner.

The third fall was given to the Indian when Lutze could not come out. Lutze won the first fall in 20:35 with a stepover toe hold that dumped Little Wolf on his tepee and made him holler "Wah-hoo" or whatever it is Indians say when they feel like Little Wolf felt.

After he was taken to the dressing room Lutze became violently ill. Normally Lutze would have survived the punishment inflicted through the "death grip" but, while working out in a gymnasium Saturday, he strained a muscle in his right leg and collapsed when it was subjected to severe strain.

"Chief" Chewaki bit, kicked, slugged and tugged at Don Olivich Pico, quarreled with the fans and sat on the floor throwing peanuts at the kids to get a draw in the first half of the double main event. Chewaki took the first fall in 12:28 minutes with a body slam and Pico was given the second in 14:20 minutes with another body slam.

Chewaki's press agent claims the "Chief" hates all white men and from indications at the grunt and groan emporium I would say the score is about even—he wasn't so popular with the white men.

Maybe it is the gypsy in him but Chewaki lost his temper when some newboys started shouting paperwads at him and threatened "to kill you," but the kids didn't believe him and kept up their target practice. After Chewaki won the first fall a barrage of peanuts bounced off the gypsy to fill the ring. After the second Chewaki sat on the floor and tossed the nuts right back at the crowd and threatened to fight a spectator who laughed.

"Wild Man" Zinn was defeated by George ("Naughty, Naughty") Kondella when the Greek dumped him in 15:24 minutes with a body slam.

LEFT-HANDERS BEST

In 23 of the 36 years the American league has been in existence, left-handed hitters have held the batting crown, due largely to Ty Cobb's 12-year reign.

Luke Appling, Chicago White Sox shortstop now near the top, is one right-hander who has a chance to lift the 1936 title from the six left-handed swatmen now fighting for it.

he has the choice of paying his own way or remaining at home, and he has about decided to stay here. Wetherell has a job on the University of Southern California campus so would be a double loser by making the trip.

RANDOM NOTES

Morning newspapers usually get the breaks on "spot" sport stuff. Bucking an insurmountable time element, afternoon sheets print more feature stories, especially where they have a.m. competition. The Olympic Games in Berlin, however, is the exception that proves the rule. The current Olympics are strictly a p. m. dish.

Since there is nine hours difference between here and Berlin, afternoon papers are able to publish in full TODAY'S news hot off the grid (or track if you must) hours and hours before the morning editors get a crack at it.

Students of psychology (and perhaps biology) might learn something by studying financial reports of the series between the Tiernan and Green Cat softball teams for the Santa Ana girls' league championship.

At a dime a head, the three games grossed about $170, indicating that some 1700 persons paid their way into the Municipal Bowl. Steadfast customers at girls' games are beardless youths, grey oldsters.

Most striking improvement of the season is accredited to Marjorie Lauderbach, Santa Ana's tiny tennis star who stole the show in the Open tournament here last week-end.

Miss Lauderbach now is man-handling players who were beating her as often as not last summer. Aside from Carolin Babcock and one or two others who are in the east, she is the best in Southern California right now — as her smashing victories over Elizabeth Dieke, May Doeg and Jacque Virgil indicate. Miss Dieke is National Public Parks champion.

Always a resourceful court-courer, speedier than most women, Miss Lauderbach now drives well, volleys craftily, has even picked

ARIZMENDI AND ARMSTRONG MIX

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The world's featherweight title, as recognized in California, will be at stake tonight when Baby Arizmendi and Henry Armstrong clash in a 10-round match under the stars at Wrigley field.

Arizmendi is favored in betting odds today to whip the hard punching Negro. Referee George Blake is under orders to give a decision one way or the other, if neither fighter scores a knockout. Arizmendi formerly was recognized as champion by the New York boxing commission but was shorn of his title. He scored two victories over Armstrong in Mexico City, although both fighters claim to have never been knocked down in their careers.

Promoter Joe Waterman is making accommodations for 25,000 fans. The fighters will weigh in at 126 pounds.

JOE'S GROCERY LOSES STOK. C.

Their chances for a City league championship jeopardized by a 4-3 defeat at the hands of the Knights of Columbus, baseballers representing Joe's Grocery today clung to two straws: (1) Thursday's game between the undefeated Elks and the Commercial National bank, and (2) their own post-season conflict with the Elks.

These two are the only City league games left to a long season of softball at the Municipal Bowl, except the playoff series between the first and second-half champions.

Jimmy Haynes pitched the K. of C. to its victory over the Grocers last night. Wimbush's single, Earl Halderman's double and Conaway's single scored two runs in the fifth, deciding the tussle in favor of the Caysa. The box score:

Joe's Grocery vs. Knights Columbus

ORANGE'S CUBS BATTLE OILERS FOR 2ND PLACE

The last time Santa Ana's Stars played in Westminster they were putty in the hands of "Fuzzy" Errington, but the heir apparents to the second-half championship in the National Night league will be favored to cop their ninth straight game there tonight.

Hustling, bustling George Lackaye not only has his club imbued with a winner's complex but has Jim Coates hurling the finest ball of his brief, spectacular career. Coates has held his second-half opposition to an average of 1-2 runs and 5 hits per game, and his streakout record has soared along with this remarkable effectiveness. Three of his nine victories have been blanks.

The Stars haven't been to Westminster since the next-to-last contest of the first-half when Errington shaded Coates in a 2-1 pitcher's battle, both gunners allowing five baseknocks. That was the nearest Santa Ana has come to being shutout this season, Errington stopping the Stars cold in seven innings.

Manager Lackaye says he will use the same lineup and batting order that eked out a thrilling victory in 10 innings at Anaheim last Friday. He is enthused about the splendid pinch-playing of "Doc" Smith at shortstop, believing the redheaded veteran has been filling in there as well as Francis Conrad ever did. Lackaye also has high praise for George Preble's department at second base.

Francis Penhall, who is doubling in brass as both business and field boss for the Aviators and batting for the Shortstop Les Haseot, plans to change in the Westminster lineup. The club will line up with Hemus at short, Harnois in center, Montgomery at first base, McNabb on second, Joe Hosack in right, Sauer at third, Lemon behind the log, Starkey in left field and Errington on the mound.

Of much interest to National leaguers in general is tonight's collision at Orange between the amazing Cubs and the first-half champion Oilers of Huntington Beach. Roger Larimer has been pitching sensationally for Orange and if he can stop Joe Rodgers' merryman Orange will slither into second place and establish itself as Santa Ana's chief second-half rival.

WINNER WOODRUFF

Here's Johnny Woodruff, one of America's four Olympic winners at Berlin today. The Pittsburgh university Negro captured the 800 meters, breaking Great Britain's stranglehold in that race. His was the first U. S. victory in the "Olympic half-mile" since 1912.

down the runway almost unnoticed by the crowd which was jubilantly "Hailing" Lutz Long of Germany who had tied the Negro's earlier leap of 25 feet 9 27/32 inches.

Owens had shaken Long's hand and then the German took the salute of honor from Hitler. But even while the informal gesture was being made the Ohio State youth flashed into the air legs kicking and came down with a grin over the 86-foot mark.

Long's jump was sufficient to give him second place, however. Naoto Tajima, Japanese veteran of the 1932 Olympics, took third place with 25 feet 4 and 47/64 inches. Arturo Maffei of Italy and Wilhelm Leichum of Germany tied for fourth with 25 feet 4 11/32 inches and in sixth place was Bob Clark of San Francisco whose jump of 24 feet 11 7/32 inches was below his best.

Owens shattered another Olympic record as he ran first in the third heat of the qualifying trials for the 200-meter run.

The dusky speedster covered the course in 21.1 sec, shaving a tenth of a second off the Olympic mark set in 1932 by Eddie Tolan of the United States.

Because he enjoyed a stiff following wind this morning, it was certain that Owens' mark would not be recognized as a new Olympic record.

Owens Frightens Followers

After winning his heat, Owens trotted over to the broad jump pit and qualified for the final in that event. After frightening his followers by fouling his first two tries, he easily surpassed the qualifying mark of 23 feet, 9 7/16 inches on his third attempt.

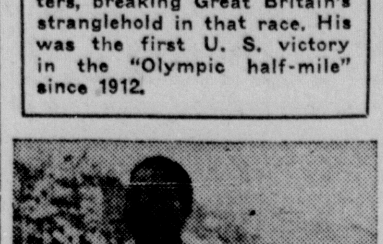

Owens moved into the semi-final of the 200-meter trials with ease. Running easily, he shot into the lead at the gun and stayed in front down to the tape.

Helen Stephens, the Fulton, Mo., speedster, chalked up the first American victory in the women's competition by speeding home in front in the 100-meter finals. Annette Rogers of Chicago finished fifth.

Stella Walsh of Poland was second and Kathe Krauss of Germany third.

accepted world and Olympic record. In her qualifying heats she ran 11.4 and 11.5.

Owens won his quarter-final heat in the 200 meters easily. He crossed the line nine meters ahead of his nearest rival—McPhee of Canada.

Bob Packard of Georgia moved into the semi-finals of the 200 meters along with Owens by finishing third in the first heat. Matthew Robinson of Pasadena also joined his mates in the semi-final. He won the fourth heat.

America also landed its other men in the finals of the broad jump. Johnny Brooks of Chicago and Bob Clark of San Francisco both easily surpassed the necessary, qualifying distance.

"I sure was worried about fouling on those first two takeoffs," Owens said after his qualifying jump. "The trouble was that the runway was too soft, making it almost impossible to judge distance."

While Owens was making his second record-shattering run of the day, two women smashed the Olympic and world discus record twice.

Jadwiga Wajsowska of Poland shattered her own world mark for the event when she tossed the discus 146 feet, 7 1/16 inches. The Olympic record was 133 feet, 2 inches set by Lillian Copeland of the U. S. in 1932. Miss Wajsowska has up for acceptance a mark of 143 feet, 7 9/10.

A few minutes later, Giesla Mauermeyer of Germany made a throw of 156 feet, 3 7/32 inches.

RESORT HOTEL

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ANN HAMILTON, pretty young secretary in a large business office, goes to a travel agency to make plans for her two-week vacation.

BILL WARE, travel bureau employee, suggests to go to Lake Racine. Bill is obviously attracted by Ann, but she gives him little thought.

Ann goes to the mountain resort and at first is lonely. Then she meets RALPH LAIRD, the head boatman, who tells her frankly he is not interested in girls, Ralph introduces Ann to JAIME LAIRD, wealthy playboy. Jaime asks her to go to a dance at the fashionable Majestic Hotel.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V
WHILE Ann put on her new evening gown—the cardinal's red—the maid was in the room, giving finishing touches to the bed. She helped Ann with the fastenings, and suddenly the girl turned. "Do you know anything about a young man by the name of Jaime Laird?" she asked.

The maid smiled. "Everybody knows him at Lake Racine. You'll find a lot of gossip in the village. He's quite a lady killer, they say. One of those playboys. He spends most of his afternoons at the track."

"Track?" Ann begged. "The horse room—or whatever they call that dark little hole in the village where they bet on the races that take place all over the country. It's rigged up with loud speakers, and it's just like being at the races, they say." The maid smiled. "But it's not legal. You dive in, and dive out. They tell me it's the biggest racket since bootlegging."

Ann recalled some talk at her office in the city about the betting racket, controlled by gangster bosses. They had invaded the summer resorts because men and women on vacation are easy marks; they have time on their hands, and money to spend.

Ann was sorry to learn this about Jaime. "Surely he rides or climbs or does something in the outdoors? If he goes to the betting room in the afternoon, what does he do in the morning?"

The maid said wearily, "He watches the ticker tape in the stock office. He's a rich young man."

Ann was thoughtful when she went down the stairs to meet Jaime. But these doubts vanished when she swept through the lobby in her evening gown, a cloak over her arm, the cynosure of all feminine eyes. Jaime was waiting for her at the door.

ONCE she was seated at his side in the sleek roadster, she felt superbly confident and at ease. "You are a good-looking babe,"

Jaime said, without conscious flattery. Such simplicity in praise was becoming to a sophisticated young man. She felt that he meant it.

Ann said little during the drive. She sat, turned so that she could feel the cool breeze against her face. She was so gloriously happy. When the roadster swept up to the portico of the Majestic hotel she ran up the steps and waited in the lobby while Jaime parked the car. She was aware that several heads turned to look at her.

Jaime joined her, and they went into the bar where everyone at the Majestic appeared to be at the moment.

Her escort seemed to know them all. Some called out familiarly, "Hi, Jaime," and invariably the men looked at Ann. After 10 or 12 of these stares she felt self-conscious, but when she sat on a high stool at the bar, with a cool drink before her she regained her poise.

"Have another," Jaime urged shortly, and his smile was disarming. The order was repeated and then they went in to dance.

Ann thought that she was completely happy. She enjoyed the dancing, and she knew that to be seen with Jaime Laird gave her instant prestige. Other young men crowded about asking for dances. She began to think that she had scored a success on her first night at Lake Racine, and it made her a little giddy. Her spirits soared. All her vague terrors of being alone at the resort had vanished.

RESORT HOTEL

ANN HAMILTON, pretty young secretary in a large business office, goes to a travel agency to make plans for her two-week vacation.

BILL WARE, travel bureau employee, suggests to go to Lake Racine. Bill is obviously attracted by Ann, but she gives him little thought.

Ann goes to the mountain resort and at first is lonely. Then she meets RALPH LAIRD, the head boatman, who tells her frankly he is not interested in girls, Ralph introduces Ann to JAIME LAIRD, wealthy playboy. Jaime asks her to go to a dance at the fashionable Majestic Hotel.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V
WHILE Ann put on her new evening gown—the cardinal's red—the maid was in the room, giving finishing touches to the bed. She helped Ann with the fastenings, and suddenly the girl turned. "Do you know anything about a young man by the name of Jaime Laird?" she asked.

The maid smiled. "Everybody knows him at Lake Racine. You'll find a lot of gossip in the village. He's quite a lady killer, they say. One of those playboys. He spends most of his afternoons at the track."

"Track?" Ann begged. "The horse room—or whatever they call that dark little hole in the village where they bet on the races that take place all over the country. It's rigged up with loud speakers, and it's just like being at the races, they say." The maid smiled. "But it's not legal. You dive in, and dive out. They tell me it's the biggest racket since bootlegging."

Ann recalled some talk at her office in the city about the betting racket, controlled by gangster bosses. They had invaded the summer resorts because men and women on vacation are easy marks; they have time on their hands, and money to spend.

Ann was sorry to learn this about Jaime. "Surely he rides or climbs or does something in the outdoors? If he goes to the betting room in the afternoon, what does he do in the morning?"

The maid said wearily, "He watches the ticker tape in the stock office. He's a rich young man."

Ann was thoughtful when she went down the stairs to meet Jaime. But these doubts vanished when she swept through the lobby in her evening gown, a cloak over her arm, the cynosure of all feminine eyes. Jaime was waiting for her at the door.

ONCE she was seated at his side in the sleek roadster, she felt superbly confident and at ease. "You are a good-looking babe,"

Jaime said, without conscious flattery. Such simplicity in praise was becoming to a sophisticated young man. She felt that he meant it.

Ann said little during the drive. She sat, turned so that she could feel the cool breeze against her face. She was so gloriously happy. When the roadster swept up to the portico of the Majestic hotel she ran up the steps and waited in the lobby while Jaime parked the car. She was aware that several heads turned to look at her.

Jaime joined her, and they went into the bar where everyone at the Majestic appeared to be at the moment.

Her escort seemed to know them all. Some called out familiarly, "Hi, Jaime," and invariably the men looked at Ann. After 10 or 12 of these stares she felt self-conscious, but when she sat on a high stool at the bar, with a cool drink before her she regained her poise.

CONVENTION OF SORORITY WILL OPEN AUGUST 5

ANAHEIM, Aug. 4.—Girls from five sororities will add members of Anaheim chapter of Phi Chi fraternity in entertaining delegates to the convention of the group to be held in Anaheim Wednesday until Saturday. James Holland, chairman, announced today.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Polk, of San Francisco, and Charles Smith, of Fresno, were the first to arrive, coming to Anaheim yesterday.

The girls are particularly invited to participate in the first social affair of the convention, a tea dance to be held at the Elks club Wednesday afternoon, the opening day. Registration of delegates will be held at the Elks club, official convention headquarters. In the morning of that day, at night a sports dance will be held at the Green Hills Country club near Whittier.

For Thursday speedboats have been chartered to take the entire group to Catalina island, where they will spend the day and dance during the evening, returning after the dance. Friday morning will see the first grand chapter meeting at the Elks club. A program has been arranged during the luncheon hour and at night a formal ball will be held at the Elks club. Sessions will be held at the Elks club during both morning and afternoon on Saturday. The convention banquet and smoker will be held during the evening.

For the delegates who plan to remain over Sunday, a beach party at Balboa is being arranged. Two board meetings will be held before the convention opens.

Jimmy Fidler in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4.—Last of the West's great showmen is Sid Grauman. Several Los Angeles theaters he owned before depression still trade on his name. Small in stature, face somewhat over-weight with nose, his chief physical characteristic is a bushy head of hair. In Grauman's heyday, that stage jokes, such as the time-worn, "I lost my parrot and it was gone for days. One morning Sid Grauman parted his hair, and there was my parrot." The line never failed to rate a laugh, for audiences were aware of Sid's hair jungle.

Other Grauman facades are lesser known; that he was a master of buffoonery, for instance. The Marxes, by comparison, fade to shame. Sid's most famous trick had a gruesome twist. One day Grauman had himself garbed in dark clothing, his face made up to look pasty white, and his body laid full length in a coffin which was wheeled into his office. Word was passed that Mr. Grauman was dead, and the theater staff paraded by his coffin, peered in, and mumbled words of sorrow. In the midst of their laments, Grauman sat upright. From every side came the dull thuds of falling bodies as feminine employees dropped in dead faint.

Joan Crawford tells me that in childhood she detested the curls her mother forced her to wear, and one day she swiped mama's scissors and "chopped off the damn things." The act caused a family revolution; a spanking for the chopping and a soap mouthwash for the language. Years have changed Joan's taste, and today she is highly thrilled with the curls she wears in her new picture; curls by the way, the exact duplicate of those that molested her childhood peace of mind. She intends to wear them in private life, which means that "Joan Crawford curls" will be the new fad in hairdress. Ladies, get ready!

I encountered director Frank Lloyd the day after he returned from the East via the new streamlined train. By a special dispensation, he had visited the engine room, and as this he said, "Everything is run by charts. The speed of the train across the continent is completely mapped out in advance." "Of course," I retorted, "All big business must be run with some degree of regularity. Don't you have a script from which to make a motion picture?" "That's just it," said Lloyd, "half the time I don't!"

Clark Gable and Carole Lombard, playing the night spots together, are having a picnic of fun. Of late Clark has called Carole "The Madam." Dining out, he insists on saying "Will the madam have this?" or "Where would the madam like to go?" A Trocadero waiter started strangely at Miss Lombard after such an address from Gable, the other evening. After he had taken their order and departed, Carole murmured, "Perhaps you had better not call me 'The Madam' in front of strangers!"

REPEAL ISSUE TOPS PRIMARY IN TENNESSEE

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(UP)—Repeal of state prohibition laws will be one of the important issues facing voters of this state when they go to the primary polls Aug. 6 to nominate Democratic candidates.

There will be no Republican state primary. The state committee named a few candidates, but none of them has campaigned for major offices. Democratic nominations are tantamount to election. While there is no fight of national significance in the state, the internal strife has been bitter. The race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, in which loyalty to President Roosevelt and the TVA has been made a paramount issue, has been lively.

Legionnaire in Race
Gordon Browning, of Huntingdon, former congressman, and Burzin Dossett, of Jackboro, former state American Legion head and country school superintendent, are the major contenders.

C. E. Wright, of Oneida, the third candidate, has campaigned little.

Dossett favors a local option form of liquor control, while Browning promises a statewide referendum for the desire of the people.

Crump Supports Browning

Former Rep. E. H. "Boss" Crump, of Memphis, head of the Shelby county political organization, has given his unqualified support to Browning. Sen. Kenneth D. McKellar has come out for Dossett.

In Memphis, the state's most populous city, repeal is a vital issue. Thousands of dollars are spent annually there for legal liquor from Arkansas, just across the Mississippi river. Business men long have protested against this flow of money outside the state. The race for the congressional

BUDGET ADOPTED BY NEWPORT BOARD

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 4.—The 1936-1937 school budget, calling for a total expenditure of $84,198 during the coming school year, was adopted Monday night following a hearing conducted by the school board. The new budget is approximately $1000 less than that adopted for the year just closed, it was revealed.

E. I. Moore was seated as a member of the board. Moore was declared elected to the board over Charles H. May a short time ago after the matter had been taken into the superior court. Superior Judge H. G. Ames ruled that E. I. Moore and Edward L. Moore, under which names the candidate received over 120 votes on a write-in campaign, were one and the same man, and declared him elected.

Conrad H. Shook continues as a member of the board as no action has been taken on his resignation.

COUNTY GROUP TOLD OF MOTOR CARRIER ACT

ORANGE, Aug. 4.—Two speakers high in the transportation system outlined recent legislation for the benefit of members of the Automotive Council of Orange county and their guests when a dinner meeting was held last evening at the Legion clubhouse in Orange, with about 75 in attendance.

Richard T. Eddy, district director of the interstate commerce commission, having offices in San Francisco with the states of California, Arizona and Nevada under his jurisdiction, was the principal speaker. He outlined the federal motor carrier act which gives to the commission the right to regulate motor transportation. He explained the benefit of the act to the producer, stating that regulations concerned the destination of the produce rather than the passage of it from one state to another.

C. J. Anthony, vice president of the Pacific Freight lines, spoke on the state law known as the highway carriers' act, and, since there were a number of candidates present, told of the transportation legislation already in effect in the interests of the public, with 10 out of 11 bills passed at the last session, and further bills planned for the next session.

RICH DEBS, bored WITH SOCIETY LIFE, take TO THE STAGE

Despite Objections of Their Proud Families, Debuntantes who Find the Social Whirl Bore Some Are Launching Themselves Upon Theatrical and Entertainment Careers and Many Are Getting Their Names in the Bright Lights

SOCIETY GIRLS are in the spotlight. Take that literally, for the lure of the stage and the entertainer's dais is still going strong, just as it was in the days when James Brown Potter, scion of a famous American family, won a divorce from the glamorous Cora Urquhart Potter on the ground that she had gone on the stage. That celebrated divorce case was tried more than 30 years ago, and society is no longer shocked when one of its favored daughters forsakes the shaded glow of the ballroom for the white lights of Broadway. But society still gasps a little as every fresh name is added to the rapidly growing list of debutantes who find the social whirl lacking in appeal, and as for the families to which these girls belong—well! They still threaten and protest—in the beginning. In the end, such is the trend of modern life, they give in gracefully and end up by wearing out their limousine tires, rolling back and forth from the theater where daughter's name is in lights.

That's just what happened in the case of Lillian Emerson, one of the latest of society girls who made good on the stage. The sunny-haired star of "Say When" is the kind of girl who every one's always talking about. But only once in a blue moon do you meet her!

The writer wanted some first-hand information on this urge stageward that seems to be dominating society girls. This new film recruit turned out to be what anybody would least expect—a girl who thrives on good hard work, day after day, and smiles and dimples and is sweet to you right in the middle of making up, a scant couple of minutes before she's due to appear on the stage before a packed house.

Heavens and earth—what a disposition! Darned if the lights in her dressing room didn't go out, too! Fireworks? Yes, indeed—plenty—but not for Miss Emerson! Like a little general she spoke out of the sudden darkness. Summoned her maid, who had been all but struck speechless to think that such a thing could happen to her adored charge—had the electricians notified.

"It will be all right in a moment—it really doesn't matter. I'll have time."

And, sure enough, it was all over the next thing you knew. No fury. No tantrums!

She was highly amused and pleased, too, at the "little general" title.

"Well, the nearest I can come to that is that I've always loved the diplomatic services. I married into it two years ago. That is, my husband's father is Gen. William Harts, now military attaché in Paris. His brilliant career has always fascinated me. Honored and decorated by every nation, my husband and I have him for our very grandest hero."

If you think that going on the stage is just a whim for a society girl, listen to Miss Emerson's side of the story.

"It's not a last-minute inspiration at all, my play acting," she said. "I've wanted to do just this ever since I was big enough to make any decision about anything. I've always wanted to be on the stage. There have been no professionals in our family, which is ages and ages old. I did have an aunt who had a glorious voice, but she never was on the stage. In the beginning I was simply aghast at the thought of mentioning my big ambition to the family, especially mother. But it had to be done. No—the family didn't like it a bit.

Lillian Emerson, upper left, star of "Say When," is one of the latest stage stars to be recruited from the ranks of society. Virginia Uppercu, above, daughter of auto and airplane multi-millionaire, recently became a professional entertainer with a New York orchestra.

"Now that I am really on the stage, though, mother is my best backer. She's just as determined as I am that I shall succeed."

BORN in Fayetteville, N. C., Miss Emerson made her bow to professional audiences on Broadway in "The Man on Stilts." She appeared later in "The Passing Present," "Throughbred" and "Wife Insurance," but "Say When" was her first musical play.

"I like this one best because in it I have to do everything—act and sing and dance. It's really easy for me. I've had voice culture and dancing since I was a little bit of a thing, and studied the violin and piano and harp," she explained.

Maybe that's just where the wealthier sisters had the edge on the poorer ones. From infancy they have the training, the education, every help in the land and abroad to bring out their talents, their accomplishments. It's no wonder that when they come to the stepping-out age they are vividly interesting young things, with well informed minds, beautifully trained bodies. Add to all this an intense desire for a career, an amazing capacity for work, and you've a combination that can't help registering!

"Please don't think that finishing schools and colleges turn out whole graduating classes of ready-made stars," said Miss Emerson—only it's a grand background to have. But you can be a wow of a social success and still be an outstanding failure as an actress. The Social Register certainly hasn't any corner on the best actress material. Station in life seems to have nothing to do with it. And for the debutante who wants to take up acting as a new fad or for the thrill of being on the stage it's just too, too bad! Because there's no career in the world that's going to take such a terrific toll. You must give up your own life as an individual. A day laborer has long hours of leisure compared to the actress, who is trying to make a place in the sun (or spotlight) for herself. There's no let-up. No let down. To top everything else off, when it's all said and done, if it happens that certain something, that spark of genius—which no one as yet has ever been able to call by its right name—has been left out of you, why, it's best to go away quietly. If you don't click—you don't click.

"I simply adore every single thing about this acting job," trilled this particular rich child. "Making up, most of all, though. It's like painting a picture. Doing your face, I mean. Just change your makeup and you can be any type you wish. It's wonderful. You can make yourself wicked and worldly, young and gay, shy and mouse-like, dignified and stately, exotic, oriental; slant your eyebrow one way and you're another type. Well, not quite as easy as that, perhaps, but that's the general idea. Hairdress is so terribly important, too—that's got to be absolutely right for whatever character you are at the moment. And your rouge must be experimented with before your mirror with the utmost care, as well as lip rouge."

YOU see? These girls who go on the stage, in spite of family objections, in spite of the lure of an easier existence, are under no misapprehension about the amount of work they will be called upon to face. They seek the stage just as their poorer sisters do—because they genuinely want to act.

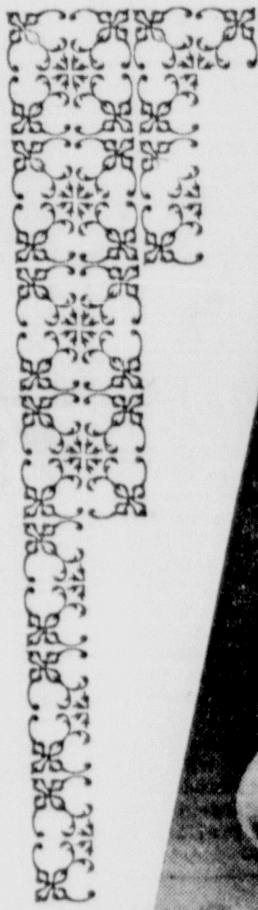

As a matter of fact few persons would believe the training—almost military in its intenseness—which is required to produce what the modern world calls entertainment. No soldiers on the field of battle were ever surer of their positions. No special battalion ever followed orders more closely than do the girls who seemingly enjoy themselves even while they are entertaining an audience.

Not only must the entertainment be figured out in advance and followed down to the last inch but the effect must be spontaneous! And if you don't think it's difficult to learn exactly what you must do and then act as if it has

Take only one member of the stage ensemble. She is, we shall say, the fourth from the end in the last of six rows of dancing "ponies." Not a very important position, perhaps, yet if even she kicked the wrong foot at the wrong moment there would be a complete upset in the ensemble, and the audience would stare in amazement. For we are accustomed to perfection—sheer perfection—and nothing halfway or even a fraction of an inch wrong will be well received. In fact, we've been spoiled by just the type of training that our typical pony gets.

Although the stage seems fairly small it really is equal to half a city block! Those who must dance up and down and around it for hours while the show is going on cover just about as much distance as those who walk briskly from Prospect Park to Borough Hall and back. Only remember, these ladies of the ensemble dance all the way!

STAGE makeup has tended to become less and less theatrical as the years go on. Part of this is due to modern lighting effects, which show up the face without grotesque shadows cast by the old-fashioned footlights and ter with a tanned makeup, no rouge, and a rather dark lipstick. Most of the others, however, use the same type of makeup they use on the street, except that it is naturally heavier, and a reddish-brown eyeshadow is preferred to the pale blue, green or brown that is the favorite of the non-theatrical guild. Even eye makeup has been modified, however, and now, unless the action calls for a character part, heavy lines under the eyes, lashes loaded with mascara, and red dots in the eye corners are seldom used.

Don't think from that, however, that makeup is not given its full quota of attention. The average chorus girl will spend from half an hour to two hours in getting her complexion as perfect as though she were going in for a closeup instead of a long-distance view! If she did not make up perfectly she might be criticized, but more probably she would simply be dismissed. The modern stage has no place for those who do not know and practice all the basic rules of the trade.

Stage door Johnnies? There will always be those, it seems, for the lure of the chorus girl is still as good as it was in the 90's. Those who really work at their trade, however, have little time nowadays to accept the attentions of these admirers. Ladies of the chorus cannot eat late suppers, because they are on a diet. They cannot drink heavily, because they pay the penalty in short wind and sallow skin. They cannot even smoke! If the giddy playboys want to buy them a glass of hot milk and see them home with more haste than romance, then they are welcome. But the days of lobster suppers and dances till dawn belong to the era of the upholstered figure, and the haphazard stage show, both of which are actually giving up a whole lot for their art.

Unified Effects

The woman with an instinct for beautiful things will always choose simple clothes made of excellent fabrics in preference to tawdry finery cut in extreme styles. Nor will she spend all her dress allowance on one frock and so go without suitable accessories such as right kind of underwear, hat, gloves, shoes, hose, handbag, to complete her costume. Such details are extremely important for they can convey the impression of chic, if wisely chosen, even when the cost of the ensemble is moderate.

The color scheme of one's costume naturally plays a leading part in achieving the effect of unity and sophistication. Those who have not sufficient taste to combine colors successfully do well to use a single color or a few shades of the same color for hat, coat and frock. A touch of clever contrast may be had in linings, hat, gloves, hose, handbag and jewelry.

The color of the eyes is usually a good point to be emphasized. Various shades of medium and light blues are always becoming to blue-eyed women. The brown or hazel-eyed people usually look well in browns, tans, bronze-greens and brownish reds. It is, of course, not always necessary to repeat the eye color in the costume a contrasting or complementary hue is often desirable, especially with greenish and gray eyes.

Observers believe Miss Lauderbach's improvement is due to three things: (1) serious practice; (2) coaching at U. C. L. A., where she graduates next June, (3) added weight. The little lady is about ten pounds heavier and really feels the tennis ball hard now.

Whether the helpful heft is due to the malted milks at the dispensary where she works is not for this correspondent to decide, but surely Darwin Scott can make something of it.

a good guy who doesn't squawk about such things although he sometimes raises a rumpus over minor matters, has donated almost $300 worth of blood this season. Orange will make a few centimes its first season. The surprising Orangemen are about even with the board now, still have a couple of nice home games with Santa Ana and Huntington Beach. . . Anaheim will break even, little more. . . Westminster probably will finish in the red. . . Lucky Huntington Beach, subsidized by a friendly city council, is said to have a bank account running into four figures. Santa Ana's Stars are about $300 to the good.

From Porterville, Baseballer Leo Morse writes that "this really isn't much of a league up here (the San Joaquin valley) because each team has only about three or four good players; the rest are just city leaguers. Irvine could beat any club up here." That gives Morse an idea. He suggests that Irvine, as uncrowned Orange County league champion, travel north for a series at Porterville. The hint may find favor at Irvine, which would like to meet the Santa Ana-Huntington Beach winner, but seems little hope for such a series.

Eagle-eyed Morse takes time out to correct an assertion that no club (prior to Irvine in '36) ever won both halves of the county schedule.

"I remember in 1933 that Garden Grove won both halves," writes Lyle. "That was the year we had Hapes, Hodgson, Coates, Dungan, as well as the Morses."

Morse plays first base for Porterville's night club, pitches for the Sunday "hardball" nine. He has won two out of three starts so far.

Pitcher Jack Dugan of Olive has signed to replace Loeie Neva at Lindsay when the robust Russian rejoins Huntington Beach for what now seems certain to be a National league playoff with Santa Ana. Dugan's team mate, Willard Bath, already has jumped Olive to play at Porterville.

up an overhead attack. Another year or two of stern competition and Miss Lauderbach may be ready to follow Josephine Cruickshank's steps into the country's major tournaments.

Observers believe Miss Lauderbach's improvement is due to three things: (1) serious practice; (2) coaching at U. C. L. A., where she graduates next June, (3) added weight. The little lady is about ten pounds heavier and really feels the tennis ball hard now.

Whether the helpful heft is due to the malted milks at the dispensary where she works is not for this correspondent to decide, but surely Darwin Scott can make something of it.

The chief reason Olive won't have a franchise in the National Night league next year is that poor old Ben Gelker,

Gehrig Laughs Off Injury To Save Record

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The baseball spotlight played today on Lou Gehrig and Hal Trosky, a pair of American league sluggers.

Gehrig, "iron man" first baseman of the New York Yankees, announced he would play in his 175th consecutive major league game at Boston, despite the wrenched back that forced him to the sidelines in the 13th inning of Sunday's game at Cleveland.

The strain, suffered when Lou swung at one of Denny Galehouse's curves, pained considerably—but not nearly as much as some of the broken bones, skull injuries or pitched balls, torn muscles and assorted aches Gehrig has endured while playing in every regular game in which the Yankees have engaged since June, 1925.

"Doc" Painter, Yank trainer, said the wrench was more painful than serious. It was good news for the New Yorkers, whose 10-game lead in the American league is due in no small part to Gehrig's .382 batting mark.

While Gehrig looked forward to a continuance of his "consecutive games record," Trosky, first baseman of the Cleveland Indians, looked back on one of modern baseball's finest consecutive hitting streaks.

Until he went hitless in four times at bat as "Schoolboy" Rowe and the Detroit Tigers defeated Cleveland, 4-0, yesterday, Trosky had hit safely in 28 successive games. Over that stretch Hal batted .412.

The spree boosted Trosky's seasonal batting average to .347, left him second to Gehrig in home runs, with 31, and second to his teammate Earl Averill in hits, with 149.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The stock market continued listless today, prices remaining unchanged, while heavy profit-taking developed in grains, which brought losses of as much as cents a bushel in corn futures at Chicago.

The stock market was almost without incentive and no group was prominent except aviation shares. The result was an extremely ragged market, with most gains and losses in the fractional area. Continued good earnings reports were not sufficient to stir up enthusiasm.

Bond prices followed the course of stocks, turning irregular in quiet trading. Cotton futures broke as much as $1 a bale. The dollar firming as further selling developed in the French franc, carrying that currency down close to the gold export point.

On the stock market there was a mixed interest in Aircraft shares. Douglas broke, dropping as much as 2 1/2 points. Ford, General Motors and Boeing made a new high at 30 1/2, 32 1/2 and 34 1/2 respectively. Sperry corporation made a new high at 21 1/2.

Amortization bonds, continuing to encounter profit-taking. The General Motors dividend report yesterday—7 1/2 cents—was the last important news for the industry. Some decline is expected in the quarter earnings report as U. S. companies turn over to new models and consequently selling developed. General Motors at one time was off more than a point.

EXCEPTIONS TO McKINNEY
EDITORIAL

When The Register invites a Guest Editorial, it does not specify what the writer is to discuss. We, however, feel that we have an obligation to take exceptions to any statements made in the editorial columns which are not based on sound logic or on facts and which leave a wrong impression.

We are referring to what B. Z. McKinney says under "New Deal Investments." We take exception to his interpretation of the word, "investment." We think there are investments and there are expenses and the man or the business who does not know the difference between investment and expense is eventually bound to go bankrupt. There is all the difference in the world between expense and investment.

First, Mr. McKinney says that the government is different from a private corporation in that a private corporation thinks of profits for its stockholders at the expense of its customers. A private corporation which thinks of the profits for its stockholders at the expense of its customers will soon go broke. Unless the private corporation gives the customer more for his money than he can get otherwise, there will be no sales. A corporation must think of its customers, first, last and all the time or there will be no profits and no corporation. In any legitimate business profit is a by-product of thinking of the customer.

Certainly, the government is not in business for profit and we must measure only results in terms of protection, convenience and opportunities afforded to the citizens. The only difference between Mr. McKinney and The Register is that we think these government services should include tomorrow and succeeding years as well as today. It is certainly easy to have more consumed today and live better today and this year or this administration, if we eat up the savings of the past and the seed corn that should be used to give us protection and opportunities for tomorrow.

There is no argument that we were in a critical condition in 1933. One of the principal causes of the critical condition, however, was that we had indulged in extravagant inflation and permitted the banks to pyramid credit, increasing the prices of commodities far beyond their actual value in gold. Certainly, it was necessary to do something to correct this condition in which the banks, railroads, insurance companies and business in general found themselves. This was an inevitable result of violating the law of supply and demand and trying to establish prices and wages on a wish basis instead of an actual basis.

Certainly, reducing the gold content of the dollar and pumping billions into the banks increases the prices of commodities. Certainly, prices are much higher now, measured in pieces of paper that mean nothing, than they were when they were measured in actual value. Now, a man has the privilege of changing a $5 bill into five $1 bills or five $1 bills into a $5 bill, but that is all he can do with his money and the more credit the government pumps into the banks, the less this money will buy of actual commodities and services.

Roosevelt was right in reducing the gold content of the dollar. We had much better further reduce the gold content of the dollar than to get into the same predicament of credit inflation we were in before, which was largely responsible for bringing on the panic.

Mr. McKinney makes the statement that the banking system has been remodeled. He says, every depositor now feels absolutely secure in his deposit in a national bank. We do not believe there has been a time in 25 years in which students of economics, business men, men who have been successful, men who do things, men who are able to compete in private business, are so concerned about the purchasing power of the dollar as they are today. What difference does it make if a man gets his money out of the bank, if it will buy only a small fraction of goods and services as the dollar he put in the bank? People do not loan money, they loan things. If they loan their things to the bank in the form of dollars and get equal dollars back, they buy only one-tenth or one-hundredths as much as they loan, this certainly is not safety.

Certainly, the government has reduced interest charges by borrowing the wealth from the people and paying the banks interest. Naturally, when the banks get interest for the wealth they do not loan, the rate will be extremely low. This is the cause of the low interest rate and no other cause. But every life insurance holder and every bank depositor, every man who has a mortgage, is having his assets taken from him day by day as the purchasing power of the dollar is being changed by the wasteful extravagance of the government.

The author evidently believes in a philosophy of economics, as Manderville did, that private vices including extravagant waste of office holders are public benefits. He evidently believes that two people can consume the same bottle of milk, that two people can wear the same suit of clothes. He evidently does not believe that what one man consumes another man cannot consume, because he reasons that everybody gets the benefit of the government's expenditures. He evidently does not realize that the only benefit is the fraction of profit or the extra wage that the man gets more than he could get working for private enterprise, is the only transfer of wealth. He evidently does not believe that the only man who gets the benefit of the consumption of wealth is the man who consumes it. If this theory is right, why pay any taxes? Why not have the rich live more extravagantly, the government spend more money so that everybody could live better? Certainly it is most inconsistent, uneco-nomical reasoning, and contrary to all human experience.

Mr. McKinney uses the argument that we have spent millions in war in destruction and now we can afford millions in construction, but we are not spending it in construction. We are spending it in boondoggling, in destroying the morale of the people teaching them to be paid for doing things people do not want or need and teaching them to destroy wealth.

Mr. McKinney does not seem to know that people do not want work but they want higher and higher rewards for their work; that we cannot increase the standard of living by having people wasting and destroying wealth that should be turned into equipment to add to the per capita equipment. Mr. McKinney does not seem to know that in the United States wages are high, because of the high capital invested. Mr. McKinney does not seem to know that in the United States there are $25,000 invested for every worker in the railroad; that the cost of transportation of a ton one mile in the United States is 1 cent; that in India, where there is practically no capital invested (due to wars and lack of savings) for the worker in transportation, the cost of transporting one ton one mile is 12 cents, even with the lowest possible wage for the coolie.

Mr. McKinney seems to believe that we can have a higher standard of living by wasting our capital, by eating up the seed-corn, by working with our hands, as the savages did, rather than using modern energy and modern machinery as a result of savings.

Mr. McKinney seems to think we can have more by having less, by plowing under the cotton, killing the pigs, importing commodities and paying people for being idle. If paying people for being idle is an investment, we do not know what the word, investment, means. We certainly think Mr. McKinney does not know what investment means.

SPLENDID SUGGESTION

The move made by the Orange County Builders Exchange in conjunction with the Trades Union favoring the sponsoring of a movement to interest young men in learning trades, is certainly a wise one.

Every man is much more secure in his future if he has a trade to fall back on, in case his profession or business is not successful.

Trades are the best stepping stones to entering business. One of the weaknesses in our present situation is that so many people insist on starting at the top or undertaking something very difficult to do before they learn to do the mechanical things.

Too many people are like the boy who was not getting along very well in school and his teacher finally asked him what he wanted to do and he replied that he wanted to be a retired business man. Too many people want to do the complicated things before they have learned to do one difficult job well. Let everyone learn to do one difficult job well before he broadens out too much.

HOMES BOUGHT TO LIVE IN

There's something distinctly refreshing in the fact that half of America's home owners buy their first houses and garden plots "just to have a better place to bring up the children."

A recent nation-wide survey reveals this happy state of affairs. Moreover, it discloses that next to this praiseworthy desire, the greatest motive for home owning is really a sentimental longing for "a place of our own—a home." Investment runs a pretty poor third.

About 31 per cent of American families build homes, the survey reveals further, and there are children in 61 per cent of these homes at the time of purchase.

All of which implies rather distinctly that the man who buys a home is thinking a lot more of the intangible values it represents than of the dollars-and-cents side of the deal.

POLICE CERTAINLY JUSTIFIED

The Santa Ana Police certainly are justified in explaining to the public that they are not responsible for the watchmen in front of the school buildings guarding the children in crossing the streets when there is no school.

This is a very nice local example of the advantage of long distance planning. Something is started and goes on indefinitely, at public expense, when it is performing no service.

When the money is coming from the Federal Government, every city in the land wants to get all it can, whether it produces some wealth or not. If the services were paid for locally, this waste would not be tolerated.

The police are certainly justified in letting the public know that it is not their managing—it is wasting good energy.

RURAL CHECK-UP MAY HELP

The problem of resettlement, involving abandonment of vast sections of land and some small towns, helps to focus attention on the question of rural organization.

By this is meant county, township, and school district set-ups with their customary duplication of functions and territories, and consequent exorbitant cost to the taxpayer. Michigan, for instance, has found that substantial savings might be effected if numerous, thinly populated school districts in less productive sections of the state were consolidated.

Many other states face identical problems. The distribution of population and duplication of governing agencies constitute a real problem of reorganization. So while we're at this settlement question, it might be a good stroke to examine the situation generally, in drouth areas and elsewhere.

'Ha Ha! Look—I Laugh So Hard I'm Crying!'

Day By Day In Washington

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1936)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—President Roosevelt is making hay while the sun shines—at least political hay. This it would appear, is the way the Republicans look at it. For they do not think he has been on a vacation in the last few days but actually busy looking after his political fortunes.

What leads the Republicans to such a supposition is that Mr. Roosevelt chose this summer for his visit to Canada and to have a speech broadcast in French as well as English. Mr. Roosevelt was governor of New York for two terms and near enough to make several visits to Quebec, official or otherwise, and he has been up in that vicinity since he was elected president of the United States.

What possible relationship, it will be asked, is there between Mr. Roosevelt's visit to Canada and politics of the 1936 campaign? Well, there are, in the New England states, many French Canadians. Political observers in the past have said that the French-Canadian vote has often held the balance of power in swinging the elections. To visit Quebec and make a speech in French, which would be broadcast to the United States and certainly would be listened to by French Canadians who now have become American citizens, is not a waste of time by any means, looking at matters from a political standpoint.

Mr. Roosevelt likes to make "historical speeches" anyway. He manages always to intertwine some reference to present-day affairs. In the case of his visit to Canada, he needed to do no more than he did, namely to emphasize the French background of Quebec's history, to show his speaking ability in French was, indeed, a compliment to the French-Canadians.

The president may not have thought of any politics in connection with his visit, and doubtless such primary purpose would be denied officially. Even so, Mr. Roosevelt can hardly be blamed for doing in a campaign year the incidental things that focus publicity upon him.

As a matter of fact, there are Republicans hereabouts who confess to be shrewd politics on the president's part to make the trip to Quebec at this time and to get the benefit of two national radio hook-ups from a Canadian city. But the Republicans, at the same time, insist the gesture will not be of as much aid as might be assumed. For, they say, the French-Canadian vote has been drifting away from the New Deal because of the unhappy conditions in the textile industry, for example, where many of them are employed.

It would appear that there are about 1,372,000 New Englanders of French-Canadian or Canadian parentage. There is no way to tell how many have a vote nor is there any way of knowing how many first generation French Canadians are now living in the United States.

But the importance of the French-Canadian vote is emphasized again and again in New England politics. Until the advent of the New Deal, the French-Canadian vote was considered to be Republican. In the 1935 election for congress in Rhode Island, the French-Canadians are understood to have drifted back to Republicanism. Governor Curley, Democrat, in Massachusetts, is said to have won the French-Canadian vote from time to time.

Mr. Roosevelt's decision to stop off at various places in New England on his way back from Canada, and particularly his desire to look over flood control projects, is an indication of what may happen throughout the campaign. It is believed that Mr. Roosevelt will move around a good deal, not necessarily making stump speeches, but developing local publicity and giving stimulus to local leaders.

For an election that is supposed to be "in the bag," the New Deal high command is busier trying to keep in line various group and sectional interests than might be expected to be the case in midsummer of a campaign year.

This afternoon I looked in ma's 3rd bewro draw to see if her box of peanut brittle was still there, which it was, and when ma came home I said, Hay ma, I dont like to tell you any bad news, but your box of peanut brittle is all stuck together like one big hunk of sticky stuff instead of being nice smooth different pieces the way it started.

And pray how do you come to be the possessor of such news? ma said.

Me not being supposed to open any bewro draws except my own, and I said, It must of been the hot weather combined with the molasses, ma. G wizzickers even a expert couldn't tell it was suppose to be peanut brittle, I said.

Nevertheless it still is, isn't it? Ma said, and I said, Yes mam, but G, ma, I'd hate to think of you digging in it with your dainty fingers. You know how you hate to feel a doorknob when it's just even a little sticky, so good nite ma, it'll be a awful sensation for you.

You haven't told me yet how you happen to know anything about it in the first place, ma said, and I quick said, Anyways, ma, I've thawt of a good escape out of it for you. I dont mind sticky feelings half as much as you do, and what I thawt was, I thawt I'd brake it all apart for you just the way it was at first, and wrapp each piece in cellofane off of pop's cigars, and I wouldn't expect any reward except the privilege of eating the little hunks that stuck to my fingers, I said.

So how about it, ma, I said.

You still haven't informed me how you came to be the bearer of such tidings, ma said.

Still meaning how did I find out, and the general result was that ma put the box in the refrigerator to let it freeze back to normal.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

THE TWILIGHT OF THE SKILLED

Our ears are filled so full of news of the unemployed that we are likely to overlook some very significant aspect of the current situation.

We may be facing a serious shortage of skilled young artisans. Several instances have come personally to my attention lately of industries in need of skilled artisans with none available unless they were hired away from some other industry.

Until we shut down so tightly on the immigration from the Old World, we imported many of the skilled artisans we needed.

With that source drying up, we find the domestic supply of supply inadequate.

Some of the reasons for this seeming twilight of the skilled workman seem obvious:

There has been in recent years a regrettable epidemic of white-collaritis in the oncoming generations, a growing disinclination on the part of millions of young Americans to function as skilled workmen.

I am sure that America holds an army of white collar workers who would have had richer and happier lives as skilled workmen had they been willing to pay the price of perfecting the necessary skill.

I am convinced that many are thus maladjusted.

Both organized labor and organized industry should spare no pains to provide for the future an adequate supply of truly skilled artisans.

This is imperative if we are really to attain the abundant life for the millions, for, as I pointed out yesterday, the abundant life will remain a mirage until we vastly increase the annual production of wealth. To produce enough to provide the abundant life for all we shall have to resort to the utmost use of all that science and technology can give us in improved methods of production, and in this venture the skilled workers will bulk large.

OUR CHILDREN

BY ANGELO PATRI

CITY CHILDREN AND THE GREAT OUTDOORS

The city is no place for children, especially in August. Children need plenty of space, the feel of the earth under them, the infinite sky above them, the wide horizon of the sea and the lift of the everlasting hills. Fresh air and sunshine and cool spring water, fresh things to eat, milk that is the essence of sweet grass and clover are the necessities of their growth. If you say this is ideal then I must say that this was their rightful heritage until men built cities and bred children within their stifling walls. Children used to be born in the country—where they now belong.

The cities have been built, however, and the children, thousands of them, are forced to live under conditions that have had enough the year round, but which become intolerable in the August heat. Imagine having to breathe in tiny rooms, cut off from even the light, air that stir above the heated city. Think what it is to lie twisting and turning, gasping for air throughout the stifling night; to rise in the morning to face another scorching day, the heat rising in sickening waves from pavements so hot they burn one's soles. Then comes the headache, the loss of appetite, the heat sickness that only the cool, sweet breath of the country can heal.

Nothing speaks so eloquently of the suffering of city children during the hot spell as the fire escape beds. One sees them as the "L" train passes through the crowded district. A board is placed over the opening and a scrap of carpet is laid for the mattress. Here the children lie in hope of catching the slightest air that stirs. Their father and mother have given them the preferred place while they sought what relief they might get on the sidewalk or the roof. Such things should not be in America.

The children whose parents could pay to send them to camps have done so. These children are enjoying the freedom of the country and all that that means. They run barefooted along the wet shores, and the cool sand sends thrills of delight through their singing bodies. They lie under the shade of the pine woods; they march, chanting their camp songs along the mountain roads; they swim the lakes and the rivers and climb the hills to stretch their bodies and souls to meet the view of earth and sky and water. They are happy and healthy and beautiful to behold, for their eyes shine and their skins glow, and their feet are light on the hills.

These children are where they belong. Those that were left behind belong there too. It is heart-breaking to think of them choking in the hot, dusty, smelly city while the country waits beckoning to them. It is saddening to think of them sick with longing for the freedom and cleanliness of the country and feeling utterly helpless to do anything about it.

You can do something about it, though. You can send your check this day to help one heat-weary, city-sick child get away to where he can breathe sweet peace, where he can forget his misery and learn to laugh. You have this privilege. You face this duty. Help! Children need so little it is a shame not to give it. Do something about this today, won't you? (Copyright, 1936, The Bell Syn., Inc.)

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a 3-cent stamped addressed envelope for reply.)

Register Clearing House

(The articles under the Clearing House are published for the purpose of exchanging ideas and are not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.)

Editor Register: In looking over some recent editorials I notice the one: "Salaries of County Employees", July 3, 1936.

I am somewhat surprised to find an editor speak out as frankly as you do against an increase (or restoration to the old level) of salaries of county employees. Did they not drop voluntarily 15 per cent a few years ago? Could they not as individuals spend more money and have more pleasures? Certainly. But you ask the fatal question: "Where will this money come from?"

From the taxpayers, of course. And they will be that much less able to spend money for their benefit. Your arithmetic in the matter seems to be correct.

Farmers and orchardists, whose product brought often less than production costs, found their income often reduced to the vanishing point. The interest on their investment or equipment for production near zero. And the risks they take from the elements and market fluctuations are an endless worry. Orange growers have not seen a good price year since 1931, and while this year marks a pick-up, yet many find that the wind damage in dropping and scarring fruit will greatly lessen their income.

I am surprised that any county employee should ask for restoration to the pre-depression salary at this time, knowing that we are still far from the 1929 income for the mass of taxpayers. In fact I have wondered that they did not voluntarily go to 50 per cent in 1932 and 1933.

It is not at all likely that the supervisors will at this time accede to the request for an increase. The election is too near. "Those who seek re-election will not endanger their chance, and those who seek their places will remember that the taxpayers have more votes than the county employees. And if after the election the board or a majority does raise the salary, the recall may be invoked. It happened two years ago that before the newly-elected member took office at New Year's, the old board increased the taxpayers' burden by adding a deputy to an office, where none was needed.

25 Years Ago Today

AUGUST 4, 1911

Negotiations lasting for weeks were concluded today by the signing of papers that transfer to the Orange County Savings bank, the property at 113 West Fourth street, and to J. H. Padgham and Son, the property at 106 East Fourth street, now occupied by the bank. Bank papers are in the name of its new president, W. A. Zimmerman.

County Tax Collector J. C. Lamb today decided to the state, 26 pieces of property that went delinquent five years ago. Only two of the properties are within the limits of Santa Ana; one of the Newport Beach assessments is for the P. E. right-of-way. Any of the property is open to redemption by anyone interested.

Glenn L. Martin will probably fly at the carnival to be given soon by Pomona merchants. A committee of five prominent Pomona men including Mayor Midgley, visited this city yesterday to get pointers on Santa Ana's successful carnival, and while here made a proposition to Martin to fly at their forthcoming event.
